

KILL GANG LEADER IN HOME

HOOVER TO KEEP MELLON ON JOB IN HIS CABINET

Long Conference Ends in Secrecy.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(Special.)—President Hoover conferred for an hour and a half today with Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, who is generally believed to have accepted an invitation to retain his place in the cabinet under the Hoover administration.

Mr. Mellon is the only member of the Coolidge cabinet whose counsel Mr. Hoover has sought so far since arriving in Washington to prepare to take over the reins of government. The President Elect invited Mr. Mellon to lunch with him in private in his headquarters at the Mayflower hotel, and the venerable finance minister arrived and inquired his way to the suite shortly before 1 o'clock.

Given Reporters the Slip.
About 2:30 o'clock Mr. Mellon slipped softly out of the rear door of the Hoover suite and, making his way from the hotel by a rear elevator, successfully eluded the waiting newspaper reporters. Later, at the treasury department, Mr. Mellon sent out word that he had nothing to say regarding his interview with the President Elect. Mr. Hoover was equally secretive.

Although reports that Mr. Hoover has selected Mr. Mellon for his secretary of the treasury lack confirmation, official Washington believes them authentic. The general belief among Republican leaders is that Mr. Hoover some time before the election invited Mr. Mellon to retain his portfolio and the secretary accepted.

It is recalled that several weeks before the election Mr. Mellon, in response to questions by reporters, expressed a readiness to remain in office indefinitely. At the time this was construed widely as a hint thrown out by Mr. Mellon for the purpose of acquainting Mr. Hoover with his state of receptivity to preferment under the Hoover administration despite the fact that Mr. Mellon had stood out to the very last against Mr. Hoover's nomination.

Now it is thought that Mr. Mellon's enigmatic remarks followed his acceptance of an invitation to succeed himself.

Reparations Possible Topic.
Presumably Mr. Hoover and Mr. Mellon discussed at length today the European project to liquidate German reparations and the war debt owed the United States, which is the most important question of foreign affairs now visible on the horizon of the Hoover administration. It will be necessary eventually for Mr. Hoover to make decisions of the vital consequences to the American people in connection with this matter, and the President Elect is already being asked to pass upon the steps being taken by the Coolidge administration to reduce the United States to the underling.

Here again the whirligig of fate displays itself in an amazing mood, for Mr. Mellon, accepting reappointment at the hands of the man he opposed for the presidential nomination, is counseling on world war debt settlement the man with whom he was oftenest at loggerheads in determining how much to scale down the amounts European nations owe the United States. The two men came closest to a break in the French war debt settlement, Mr. Hoover believing that the fifty per cent cancellation accepted by Mellon represented a greater concession than was justified by the ability of France to pay.

The Present Problem.
Great Britain, France and Italy are now moving to definitely fix the amount of German reparations at a figure somewhere between six and ten billions of dollars. Then, according to the plan, Germany would issue bonds secured by German railroads and industrial plants to the amount of the total indemnity. What the British, French and Italians want above all else is the consent of the American government tootation of this vast German loan in the United States. The rich Americans, says Europe, can afford to buy these billions of bonds and as a result Germany would owe the Americans instead of European governments.

With the proceeds of the bond sales to the rich Americans, Germany would pay the reparations debt to all the European nations which then would approach the United States with a proposal of a discount of their sixty year war debts for cash. Incidentally they would want Uncle Sam to knock

DRAINAGE SLUSH ECHO STAGGERS NEW ASSEMBLY

Oust House Clerk; On Sanitary Pay Roll.

BY PARKE BROWN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—(Special.)—Chicago sanitary district scandals tonight stirred the new Illinois general assembly with a jolt that threw Bert H. McCann of Bloomington, veteran clerk of the house of representatives, out of office.

According to his own statements to house members this afternoon and to the caucus of Republican representatives this evening, McCann was placed on the pay roll of the drainage board during the last session, when it had before the legislature several bills, including an increase in its tax rate.

For about five months, he said, he received $408 a month for his services as an attorney and legislative expert. Before this news burst on the caucus McCann's reflection had been taken for granted.

McCann Tearfully Withdraws.
But the revelations caused the presentation of two other names, and after a hectic roll call that led into a confused changing of votes, McCann, with a suggestion of tears in his eyes, asked that his name be withdrawn. That was done, and George C. Blauer, who has served as his assistant for several terms, was unanimously selected for his place.

The McCann incident was the high point of interest in the four caucuses that met tonight on the eve of the fifty-sixth general assembly. What was done in the four caucuses—Republican and Democratic for each house—was more or less unofficial, since most of their decisions must be made effective by formal action when the session convenes at noon tomorrow. But all of them were unusual.

For the first time in many years the old system of secrecy was thrown to the winds. All four caucuses were open, ostensibly only for the newspapermen, but large segments of the public drifted without molestation into the meetings held in two hotels.

Emmerson Has His Program.
Under these conditions the program of the supporters of Louis L. Emmerson, governor elect, went through without a hitch. The conference of Republican senators, forty in number, proceeded peacefully and also rapidly under the chairmanship of Senator Harold Kessinger of Aurora.

Senator Martin R. Carlson of Moline was unanimously nominated as temporary president. Then two old timers, Secretary James P. Padgett and Theodore E. Scouten, sergeant-at-arms and general handy man for those in power, were chosen in the same way. The fourth place, that of postmaster, was held last session by Mrs. S. A. Bradley, said to be a relative of a relative of Len Small.

Mrs. Madge Richey of Springfield was chosen without a contest.

Shanahan Again Speaker.
The Republican house caucus started out with the same promise of peace and understanding with Leroy M. Green of Rockford, permanent chairman.

When Homer J. Tice, who himself was a real likelihood for the honor, moved that the Chicago veteran, David E. Shanahan, be honored with a fifth term as speaker, there were a dozen simultaneous motions that the nominations be closed.

Representative Shanahan, thus assured that tomorrow he will be elected speaker once more, told his associates in a brief talk that he had made no promises concerning his selection of a floor leader or committee appointments.

He resumed his seat and then took the floor again to propose that as soon as possible the house recess long enough to permit its speaker and clerk and some judges to go to Peoria and administer the oath to Representative Robert Scholes, speaker during the last two sessions, who is ill in his home there.

The unanimous re-election of Frank J. Leonard of Chicago as doorkeeper and of Mrs. Etta V. Hayes of Decatur as house postmistress, the McCann firework started.

Argentine Police Arrest Two More for Hoover Plot

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
ROSARIO, Argentina, Jan. 8.—The police arrested two Spanish brothers, Simplicio and Benito Defuente, who are known to be anarchists. They were charged with sending to Buenos Aires 400 gelatine cartridges, which were discovered shortly before President Elect Herbert C. Hoover's arrival there. Five men now are detained in connection with the Hoover plot.

GOING TO CHANGE WATCHDOGS?

NEW COLD BLAST IS DUE TONIGHT, FORECASTER SAYS

With one cold wave over, Chicago is facing another frigid blast which will probably strike the city tonight, the weather bureau indicated last evening.

Temperatures will continue to rise today, but the warmer weather will probably be accompanied by rainfall which will turn to snow at night as the mercury falls, the forecast said. Skies will be clear tomorrow, it was predicted.

Three more deaths from exposure were reported yesterday in Chicago, bringing the total since Sunday to six. George Taylor, 75 years old, veteran of the Spanish American war, was found unconscious in his basement quarters at 3221 Ogden avenue and died while being taken to the county hospital.

John Cavanaugh, 2 years old, who kicked off the covers of his crib on Monday while his mother, Mrs. Mary Cavanaugh, was at work, died in his home at 2523 Parnell avenue. The fire went out while the mother was away and she found the child unconscious on her return.

MISTAKES U. OF C. MEN AS ROBBERS; WOUNDS BOTH

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan. 8.—(P.)—Word was received here late today that Murray Jensen, 21, of Council Bluffs, and Louis Campos, a South American, both University of Chicago students, had been shot early Saturday at Cedar Grove, Tenn., by the postmaster there, who mistook them for robbers. Neither, it was reported, was seriously wounded.

A message received here said that Jensen and Campos were being held at Huntington, Tenn., on charges of attempted robbery filed by H. D. McKinney, Cedar Grove postmaster.

Mrs. Jensen, the youth's mother, said her son had gone to Tennessee with Campos to spend the Christmas holidays and that they were hitchhiking their way back to school when the shooting occurred. Jensen's parents learned that the youths had gone to a filling station, which also serves as postoffice, to keep warm. Finding the place locked, they knocked on the door, and the postmaster, living across the street, mistook them for robbers.

McCorry Dime Store Heir Killed on Hunting Trip

Orlando, Fla., Jan. 8.—(Special.)—Van C. McCorry, 22, son of John G. McCorry, five and ten cent store magnate, was shot and killed while on a hunting expedition on his father's 10,000 acre ranch and game preserve in Orange county late today. He was shot by Raymond E. Maguire, Orlando attorney, a relative by marriage of McCorry. The accident occurred while the two were riding horseback.

In the hands of the grand duke, just before the caquet was reached, were placed a pinch of earth brought from door.

Exiles Bow in Tattered Pomp at Duke's Bier

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
CANNES, Jan. 8.—Candles are burning all night tonight before the altar in the little Russian church here, where the body of Grand Duke Nicholas, chief claimant to the throne of the deposed czars of Russia, lies in state.

Tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. the funeral services will be held and the body will be interred temporarily in a crypt in the church.

The most important part of the burial service, according to the orthodox church rites, took place today at the grand duke's villa at Antibes, just before the remains were removed to Cannes, and there were few dry eyes among the vast hundreds who crowded before the villa, even among those who came out of curiosity.

Tattered Splendor of Royalty.
All that is left of the once dazzling Russian nobility tried to provide regal splendor for the memory of one whose popularity eclipsed even that of the late czar during the days of the world war, but even the aid of a whole battalion of French Alpine troops with glistening bayonets, a splendid French military band, and the presence of one of France's greatest military leaders, Marshal Petain, only seemed to accentuate the pathetic scene of these homeless exiles trying to honor the memory of their departed leader.

In the large hallway of the villa a male choir of a dozen Cossacks in rough field uniforms chanted weird, half oriental hymns, whose despairing melodies seemed to be blown from the wooden shores of the distant Volga far from this sunny land.

Around the funeral bier four aged priests in flowing white and gold robes offered prayers and chanted the ritual of the dead, while the candles flickered out and the funeral procession began.

Cossacks Form Honor Guard.
It was led by the choir, still humming the weird airs which have been told songs of the Russian peasants since time immemorial.

Then came the priests, their brilliant robes shining in the sunshine which beat down from above the Mediterranean.

The guard of honor surrounding the pallbearers numbered ten, all officers or soldiers of the grand duke's famous Almaznansky Cossack regiment. Their loose blouses seemed ill fitting, but they were bedecked with shining military medals and marched as proudly as if they had been transported suddenly back to Petrograd for the ceremony.

Grand Duchess Anastasia walked, leaning on the arm of Grand Duke Peter, and was followed by relatives and other notables, many of whom left their lowly sewing stools and returned to take part.

In the hands of the grand duke, just before the caquet was reached, were placed a pinch of earth brought from door.

"Artist" Gets 25 Years for Attacking Girl

David Ackerman, 41 year old North Chicago landscape gardener, was found guilty of rape in Judge Claire C. Edwards' court in Waukegan last night. His punishment was fixed at 25 years in prison. The jury deliberated for five hours.

Last June, Ackerman, posing as an artist, lured Mrs. Margaret Smith, a young model, to the Lake Forest estate of A. D. Lasker, where the criminal assault was committed.

Ackerman sobbed audibly when the jury's verdict was read. His mother, Mrs. Natalie Ackerman, and his wife, Mabel, who were with him in court, also wept as they tried to comfort him. The complaining witness was not in the courtroom at the time.

Crowd Hears Defense.
Earlier in the day Ackerman took the stand in his own defense before a crowd that filled the courtroom and extended out into the corridors of the county building. His story agreed in all but its final chapter with the testimony of Mrs. Smith last Monday.

Ackerman told how he got Mrs. Smith's name from the Evanston Academy of Fine Arts on the pretense of employing her, how he had called on her at her home in Chicago representing himself as an artist, and how he took her to the Lasker woods to pose for him in an Indian setting. He stopped on the way to buy a hand ax to be used in the same tableau, he testified, and when they reached the scene he roped her to stakes, and told her she was to be the central figure in a picture named "The Captive."

At this point, his testimony and that of his accuser diverged. Mrs. Smith had stated on the stand that Ackerman then became violent, dancing around her, waving the ax over her head, and shouting that he was a moron. He threatened to kill her if she resisted him, she said.

"It was all part of a game," Ackerman explained on the stand. "A game that I was playing and that she also was playing. A fifty-fifty proposition." He denied he had used threats or violence.

But the jury refused to accept his version to the story told by Mrs. Smith, who, State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county reminded them had "undergone new tortures in aiding the state to put that man where he cannot injure other women."

Over the objection of the defense attorneys during the morning session, Assistant State's Attorney Sidney H. Book introduced evidence that Ackerman had twice been sentenced to imprisonment for indecent exposure and for exhibiting lewd pictures to children.

Trapped by Advertisement.
Ackerman's capture in Kenosha, four months after his crime ended a long hunt by Illinois and Wisconsin police. He was trapped when Policewoman Mary Quittler of Kenosha answered his advertisement for a model.

After his apprehension, Ackerman confessed attacking Mrs. Smith. He told Police Chief Lester Tiffany of Lake Forest it was easy for him to induce women to pose unclad when he told them he was an artist and wanted to paint their pictures. He said he had paid 25 Rockford girls $2 each and pose for him. He also confessed he had spied into hundreds of women's bedrooms.

BLAST DESTROYS J. F. TYRRELL'S SUMMER HOME

The summer home of John F. Tyrrell, Chicago attorney, at Long Beach, Ind., just outside of Michigan City, was destroyed by an explosion and fire shortly after 4 o'clock this morning.

The homes of Charles Dempsey and Attorney John F. Higgins, both of Chicago, adjoining Mr. Tyrrell's, were damaged by the blast.

At his Chicago home, 165 South Mayfield avenue, Mr. Tyrrell said he ascribed the explosion to failure on the part of the man in charge of the property at the resort to turn off the gas last fall when the Tyrrells left it for the winter. The house burned to the ground. So far as Village Marshal Reed could learn, no one was injured.

Sells Auto to Cafe Man for 10,000 Cups of Coffee
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
GENEVA, Jan. 8.—A new brand of automobile sales has been evolved at the village of Rovereto, where a paper hanger sold his automobile to a cafe proprietor for 10,000 cups of coffee. The paperhanger is selling the coffee checks and expects to realize a price higher than he had asked for the automobile.

SHOT TO DEATH BY 3 GUESTS AS TOAST IS DRUNK

Victim Is Successor of Tony Lombardo.

Four men drank a toast to fellowship yesterday in a flat at 1921 West North avenue.

The host was Pasquale Lolordo, 43 years old, reputed successor of Antonio Lombardo as leader of the Unione Siciliano. Lombardo was shot to death four months ago. As the guests clinked and Lolordo lifted his to his lips a bullet shattered it. Then the guests, with three pistols, shot him eleven times in the head, neck, and shoulders.

Lolordo fell back dying and his assassins fled out the door, shoving aside the woman they had made a widow. Mrs. Lolordo, 38 years old, had been ironing in the kitchen when the shots burst.

Widow Identifies Slayer.
Mrs. Lolordo said she knew nothing of her husband's affairs, excepting he was an olive oil dealer. But last night at the detective bureau, after City Sealer Daniel Serritella spoke to her, she pointed out a photo of Joe Aiello as one of her husband's slayers.

Aiello, the eldest of seven brothers and chieftain of a north side clan of alcohol distillers, had for two years fought a battle of extermination with opposing factions. The feud reached a climax last Sept. 7 at Madison and Dearborn streets, when Lombardo, a Sicilian leader, fell dead with bullets in his neck and his head driven from his body.

At Lombardo's death hundreds of terrified residents fled the "Little Sicily" district, bounded by Division street, Chicago avenue, Sedgwick, and La Salle streets. But a full followed, and before winter set in many fugitives began coming back to the tenements from which they had driven them. With Lolordo's murder the police last night said they were expecting to witness a new exodus, inspired by terror.

Police Trace Facts.
Following are the events leading up to the Lolordo murder as reconstructed from statements obtained by the police:

Pasquale Lolordo and his wife, Anna, spent the early afternoon downtown. They returned home, about 2:30 p. m., and at the doorway Lolordo was joined by two men whom Mrs. Lolordo had seen many times before, she said, but whose names she did not know. All went upstairs to the Lolordo apartment on the third floor, where Mrs. Lolordo spread a lunch for her husband and the two men.

They ate and the two men departed at about 3 o'clock. Five minutes later there was a knock at the door. The wife remained in the kitchen while Lolordo responded. Three men walked in and Lolordo welcomed them jovially.

They took chairs in the living room and Lolordo closed the door between them and his wife in the kitchen. "Patsy" always did that when he transacted business in his home. Mrs. Lolordo said, so she took no notice and began her ironing while the colored maid, Mattie Coleman, started scrubbing the floor.

Laughier, then Shots.
For an hour the tinkles of glasses, much bantering talk and occasional laughter came from the living room. But at 4 p. m., with no warning of quarrelling voices, she heard the bark of guns and ran in, brushing against the three gunmen, and knelt at her husband's side after placing a velvet cushion under his head.

A few minutes after the murder, another Mrs. Lolordo came in. This was Mrs. Anna Lolordo, whose husband, Joseph, escaped unhurt when the Mafia leader, Lombardo was slain in the loop. Joe and Patsy Lolordo were brothers and Joseph was Lombardo's bodyguard.

Anna Lolordo pulled the widow from her husband's side and telephoned F. W. Hochspieper's mortuary at 2416 West North avenue, for an ambulance. Joseph Klock, an assistant undertaker, and Joseph Condon, a driver, answered the call, and were astonished when they arrived to find a luxurious apartment on the third floor of the plain brick structure to which they were summoned.

plato of the same caliber, also empty. Lelord had been killed with .38 caliber bullets. The three half filled drinking glasses on the table, the fragment of a glass in the dead man's right hand, and bullet chips on the glassed fireplace back of where he had stood, supplied the detail necessary to reconstruct the shooting. Lelord, the police were convinced, was unarmed. Checking up on the slain man's family, the police learned that Lelord had an only son, Vincent, 18 years old, attending the University of Illinois. John Stieb, secretary to Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the Racine avenue police, telephoned young Lelord at Champaign, and his first question was: "Did somebody kill my father?" Without answering the question, Stieb advised the boy to hurry home. The police looked around for Joseph Lelord but were unable to find him. His wife said he had been out of town several days but one police report had it that Joseph was present when his brother was killed, and was himself wounded. Joseph Lelord, too, has a son, Vincent, 5 years old, who was placed in care of a neighbor, Mrs. Kate Johnk, while his mother was detained at the detective bureau.

Shotgun Found in Room.
In Pasquale Lelord's bedroom, the police found a saved shotgun and some papers including a draft of the constitution of the North West Italian American club, one of whose objects as stated was: "To improve the education of its members morally, economically and socially by means of conferences and discussion and by any other means at hand."
Within an hour of the discovery of the killing, Capt. Gilbert sent raiding squads to three poolrooms in the 1200 block on West Grand avenue, all alleged hangouts of Alieo henchmen. The 18 men seized were paraded before Mrs. Lelord, but she said she recognized none of them.

ROCCO MAGGIO, ONCE CONVICTED OF MURDER, SHOT

Rocco Maggio, 34 years old, 347 West Taylor street, proprietor of a fish market at 1347 West Taylor street and a suspected racketeer, was shot twice in the scalp and neck last night as he stepped into his car parked in front of his home. His assailant was crouching at the rear left wheel of the car as Maggio got into his seat. Maggio was tried and convicted last May for the murder of Frank Lamacia, but the Supreme court reversed the judgment on the ground that prejudicial evidence was admitted against Maggio. The case was then stricken off the docket by the state's attorney. Maggio was wounded three times last September by an assailant he refused to name. Neither in that affray nor the one last night were his wounds considered serious.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes of Winnetka, elected to the house of representatives from the seventh senatorial district, today offered her resignation to Gov. Small as a member of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois. Gov. Small accepted the resignation and named Walter T. Fisher of Chicago, a member of the board of trustees, to fill the vacancy.

ELLIS INDICTED IN HEIGHTS SLOT MACHINE INQUIRY

Capone Lawyer Works in Vain to Free Him.

The efforts made yesterday to obtain the release of Oliver J. Ellis, alleged slot machine boss of Chicago Heights, who was arrested in the raid of Sunday morning, convinced federal and state prosecutors that the man with whom he shared the proceeds were apprehensive that he might divulge their names. Significant, too, the prosecutors declared, was the appearance for Ellis and for the others arrested in the raid of an attorney linked with Al Capone and the village of Cicero.

Ellis, who was arrested at his home, had 420 slot machines in his garage, which he said had been in operation until State's Attorney Swanson took office. He said the machines produced about $30,000 a month, which was divided five ways. Ellis was in custody of the federal authorities. The charges against him are conspiracy and illegally possessing liquor, and indictments were voted against him yesterday for operating and possessing gambling devices.

Habeas Corpus Writ Sought.
Attorney Joseph Lustfield, village attorney of Cicero and Capone's representative in legal matters, vainly attempted to have Ellis freed on bail on Monday. Yesterday morning the lawyer sought a writ of habeas corpus before Judge John P. McGoorty. In the afternoon Assistant State's Attorney Q. J. Chott, spokesman for a battery of state's lawyers, informed Judge McGoorty that Ellis was a federal prisoner. Attorney Lustfield hastened to the federal building and found that Ellis and nine others had been arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker and his bail fixed at $5,000.

In his endeavors in behalf of Ellis, the attorney informed the federal prosecutors he would arrange to surrender seven other residents of Chicago Heights for whom warrants have been issued but who have not been found. He said he will produce them in court today or as soon as possible. Lustfield was disappointed in being able to give a bond for Ellis although he said he had sufficient surety to offer as bail for the ten prisoners and the seven who are to be surrendered.

Bombing Inquiry Planned.
Other than Ellis the prisoners are to be charged with making and selling alcohol and conspiracy. Joe Rossi, who said his correct name is Rose Grammatico, is to be held under $10,000 bail. His activities are to be investigated with reference to many bombings, the prosecutors said. State's Attorney Swanson, in an

CRIMINAL COURT.
Martin Wisnawski, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Frank Comerford.
Lawrence Johnson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas J. Leahy.
Joseph Boyd, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Raymond Blumke, burglary (changed to larceny), sentenced to 1 year in the county jail; Frank Szapinski, burglary (changed to larceny), sentenced to 1 year in the county jail by Judge John P. McGoorty.

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Benjamin Newton Duke, 74, the principal figure of the American tobacco industry since the death of his brother, James R. Duke, died at his home here today. He had been in failing health for several years. His fortune has been estimated in excess of 60 millions.

Reveals Gambling Inquiry.
"I have heard reports that gambling had opened up in the county outside the city, so I had an investigation made before the raids of Sunday morning. The report to me was that no slot machines were found in road houses or other public places although they might have been hidden. Punch boards and other similar devices were seen in many places."

Mr. Swanson was asked if he is ready to appoint anyone to the position of chief investigator for his office, and he revealed that he already has one or more secret service men of his own at work, persons not known to anyone but himself. He indicated further that he is not taking the word of anyone for granted about conditions in city and county when he said: "Nine out of ten anonymous complaints received at this office prove to be true statements. If they concern certain things I send a copy of the complaint to the chief of police with a request for a report. If liquor is involved I also notify the government and ask for the result of its investigation. And then my office does its own work, so we have three checks on almost any kind of complaint."

Slueths' Reports Mailed.
The prosecutor said his secret service investigators mail their reports to his home, sometimes in envelopes that look like invitations, sometimes in others so that they are not conspicuous. "Such a system," he explained, like his triple check on complaints, insures his receipt of information intended for him.

SWANSON WOMAN FINED.
Mrs. Mary Lagaski, 35 years old, 1036 West avenue, Evanston, was fined $50 by Justice of the Peace Willis R. Brightmore of Evanston yesterday after a police raid disclosed 500 gallons of mash and a quantity of moonshine in her home.

BENJAMIN DUKE, TOBACCO BARON, IS DEAD AT 74

Leaves an Estate Valued at 60 Millions.

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Benjamin Newton Duke, 74, the principal figure of the American tobacco industry since the death of his brother, James R. Duke, died at his home here today. He had been in failing health for several years. His fortune has been estimated in excess of 60 millions.

Mr. Duke was born on the ancestral farm near Durham, N. C., the son of Washington Duke, on April 27, 1855, and the story of his life has been in large measure the amazing history of the building up of one of America's greatest corporations, the American Tobacco company. From the poverty-stricken farm in the teeth of post-war conditions he stood by the side of his father and his elder brother in the long hard fight for ultimate prosperity, long hard fight for ultimate prosperity, long hard fight for ultimate prosperity.

Gave to Trinity College.
And when success was achieved he used his wealth to the advantage of many. Trinity college, now known as Duke university, was the principal recipient of his public benefactions. Guilford college also knew his generosity, and his private art collections have become famous.

Up to the time of his dissolution by the United States Supreme court in 1911, Mr. Duke had been successively treasurer and member of the board of the American Tobacco company. Since then he had withdrawn his interest and invested his wealth in street railway and power companies in the south and in real estate developments in the north.

Head of Power Company.
At the time of his death he was president of the Durham and Southern railway and of the Erwin Cotton Mills company, vice president of the Southern Power company of Charlotte, N. C., and of the Durham Hotel Company, which owns the St. Regis and other New York hotels; and he also was a director of the Durham Realty corporation, which has many holdings in New York City and the northern half of New Jersey.

Mr. Duke was married when 22 years old to the former Miss Sarah Pearson Angier of Durham, who now survives him.

JOHN COOLIDGE MADE MILITARY AID TO GOVERNOR TRUMBULL

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—John Coolidge, son of President Calvin Coolidge, will become a major on the staff of Gov. John H. Trumbull tomorrow under an act of the general assembly, which will amend the military law of Connecticut permitting appointment of a staff officer to represent the citizen military training camps.

A bill for a public act amending the law will be offered as soon as the general assembly is organized. It will be given immediate passage and the act delivered to the governor for his signature.

The appointment of John Coolidge as an aid de camp will be made, and tomorrow night, in his new uniform, Maj. Coolidge will escort his fiancée, Miss Florence Trumbull, to the inaugural ball.

Twenty years ago tomorrow Theodore Roosevelt, son of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, was appointed a colonel on the staff of Gov. George L. Lilley, but at that time aids could be appointed from civil life and the appointment was made when Gov. Lilley took office, without special legislation.

NEW LOCOMOTIVE DESIGNED TO CUT RAILROAD COSTS

A new type, high pressure steam locomotive, which is said to operate at one-fourth the cost of the ordinary locomotive, is being introduced by the International Harvester company for use by railroads, it was announced yesterday. The new engine, which appears somewhat like a baggage car and has its two engines cooped underneath, has already been tried out by one railroad entering Chicago and is said to have proved a success. Orders for several more have been placed by other lines, particularly by roads containing steep grades.

According to the announcement, it is hoped that introduction of the new engine will serve to at least partially maintain the supremacy of steam in transportation. It is claimed that the new locomotive, called a "locomotor" by its builders, will prove of value in switching and in suburban service, as well as for heavy road duty, as the usual accompaniment of smoke, steam, sparks, and gases is absent. A steam bus using a similar power is said to be under construction.

ACCUSE WITNESS OF PERJURY IN RONGETTI TRIAL

State May Ask Indictment of Defense Ace.

Indictment on a charge of perjury of a woman defense witness who claimed to be Ebba Lou Lindquist, former superintendent of nurses at the hospital of Dr. Amante Rongetti, and who testified in the doctor's behalf yesterday, will be sought by the state if efforts to prove she is Martha Lindquist, younger sister of the former superintendent, are successful, the prosecutors announced last night.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne said he was prepared to prove that the witness is not Ebba Lou Lindquist, who, he asserts, is now married and living in Pittsburgh. He declared that he had talked to her over long distance telephone and was preparing to bring both her and her husband, E. C. Carter Jr., to Chicago to testify at the trial.

Dentist to Establish Identity.

In addition Mr. Ditchburne reported that he had located a dentist who had worked on Martha Lindquist's teeth in November. He promised to produce the dentist, Dr. Richard LaPorte, with offices at 55 East Washington street, in court today for the purpose of identifying the teeth of the defense witness as those of Martha. The prosecution also announced that two women who have lived with Martha Lindquist would appear in court today to identify the girl. The names of the women were not disclosed.

The new evidence was laid before State's Attorney John A. Swanson last night and he instructed his aid to "go the limit" with the woman if the state's perjury charge can be proved.

Immediately after "Ebba Lou" Lindquist finished her testimony yesterday, Dr. Rongetti took the stand in his own defense. During his testimony he charged that Dr. Samuel Epstein, former coroner's physician under Oscar Wolf and a twentieth ward lieutenant of Morris and Emanuel Eller, had demanded a $5,000 bribe through which Rongetti could ward off the murder charge he now faces. He testified that Epstein first demanded $1,500 and later increased the demand to $5,000.

Denies Causing Girl's Death.

Rongetti testified he refused to pay the $5,000 bribe as he had refused previously to give up $1,500, saying he considered he had done no wrong and therefore saw no reason to submit to a shakedown.

The doctor, once sentenced to an electric chair and given another lease on life through a reversal by the Illinois Supreme court, is again on trial for the murder of Miss Loretta Enders, who died at his Ashland Boulevard hospital following a criminal operation. He took the stand to defend himself against the murder charge, for which the state is again demanding the death penalty, shortly before noon, and laid to natural causes the abortion he is alleged to have performed.

The physician gave all his testimony in response to questions of his counsel, William Scott Stewart, in a calm manner. He was not materially shaken on the cross-examination by Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne, an exhaustive interrogation on every point, that was still in progress when court adjourned for the night.

Tells of False Certificate.
The accused doctor told his version of the details leading up to Miss Enders' treatment in his hospital and readily admitted that he made a false death certificate in which he gave the cause of death as heart disease and nervous trouble. He said he did this at the request of the young woman's relatives, when he learned she was unmarried, so that her good name would not be besmirched in death.

Then he came to the part about Dr. Epstein's alleged attempts to bribe him.

Q—Did you see him? A—Yes, about 2 o'clock that afternoon.
Q—What was the conversation? A—He told me he had performed an autopsy and that he had found conditions indicating an abortion. He said there was a puncture of one of the organs and that it would cost me $1,500.

Q—What did you say? A—I told him I had performed no operation and there could not be any punctured organ.

Refuses to Pay Bribe.
Q—Go ahead. A—He said, "Oyes, there is; and you better pay and keep out of a lot of trouble."

Q—Yes? A—We talked some more but I would not agree and I finally told him, "Well, doctor, I can't accept your proposition." He then said, "You better think this over."

Q—Did you again see Dr. Epstein? A—Yes, that night about 8 o'clock. Several of the relatives of the girl came to see me. They wanted me to pay for the funeral and I had given them assurance I would pay $150.

Q—What was said? A—The brother-in-law of the girl told Dr. Epstein, "Dr. Rongetti don't want to pay any more money." Then Epstein said, "O, now, we all went in the office together."

Says He Has Proof.
Q—Then what? A—Then he told me he had that organ and the proof and he wanted $1,500. He pointed out he could have me a lot of trouble and said he could "fix up these people here."

I told him I could not and would not pay, that my mind was made up, and he said, "Well, I have the evidence."

Dr. Rongetti said he next saw Epstein at the inquest and that on that occasion he told Mr. Wolf, the former coroner, about Epstein's demand. He said Wolf shouted, "I won't believe you! I won't believe you!" He said he got another phone call from Epstein a week after that.

Q—Was any figure mentioned then? A—Yes, he said, "It's $5,000 now." He said, "Ain't you business men enough to know what this means to you? I want to give you a chance." He gave me several days to think it over, then I was arrested.

The case is expected to go to the jury sometime tomorrow.

SPIRITUALIST REPEATS HOUDINI CODE TO WIDOW

"Talks" with Dead Magician to Her Satisfaction

Copyright, 1929, By The United Press.
New York, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—A code message left by Harry Houdini with his wife when he died was repeated in a trance by a spiritualist medium today to Mrs. Houdini's satisfaction.

Houdini, master magician and architect of spiritualism while he lived, added to the message, the medium said. "There is no death."

It was Houdini's last request that his wife attempt to reach him at a seance. If a medium could repeat the words of the code, locked up by Mrs. Houdini in a safe deposit vault, then immortality may be proved, he said.

Seven at Seance.

Last Saturday Arthur Ford, minister of the First Spiritualist church here and editor of Immortality, announced that he had received part of the code message from Houdini's spirit. Today he visited Mrs. Houdini at her home.

With him were John W. Stafford, associate editor of Scientific American; Mrs. Stafford; Francis R. East, a broker; Mrs. Minnie Chester, lifelong friend of the Houdinis; and two news reporters.

Mrs. Houdini lay on a cot. Her spine had been injured in a fall New Year's eve.

Ford pulled down the shades in the room, drew chairs about the cot, where the spectators sat, and "went into a trance." Presently he said he was connected with the "spirit world."

Repeats Code He Left.
Then he called off this code: "Answer tell pray answer look tell answer answer tell." "Is that right?" the control said. Mrs. Houdini whispered, "yes, it is."

There were further interchanges. Then the minister, "quoting Houdini," explained the code. It was arranged as the mind reading act of the Houdinis.

With that the seance ended. Mrs. Houdini was visibly affected. "I can say unqualifiedly that that was the message we agreed on," she said. "Later when I get well, I shall open the vault in your presence and prove it."

JUDGE ASKS THAT THESE 12 JURORS BE CUT OFF LIST

Circuit Judge George Fred Rush yesterday changed his plans for disciplining a jury that on Monday acquitted Henry Lane on a charge of attempted burglary. The judge, after upbraiding the jurors when the verdict was read, told them they would have to sit in the rear of his courtroom for the remaining eleven days of their service.

Yesterday morning, however, he discharged the jurors, after again reproving them, and sent a recommendation to the jury commission that the twelve names be stricken permanently from the jury list.

Lane, according to the testimony of a policeman, was discovered prowling on the roof of a home with a burglar kit in his possession.

BALCONY FALLS AT BASKETBALL GAME; 30 HURT

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Thirty persons were injured, some seriously, tonight when a balcony at the Knoxville High school crashed.

The balcony collapsed as excited fans stamped and cheered the Knoxville and Abingdon second teams playing a preliminary to the first team match.

Women screamed and the lights went out as the wooden structure fell upon 100 spectators seated on the main floor.

Harold Philbare twisted the broken wires together and restored light for the rescuers. Dr. A. H. Harns, who was among the spectators, directed the rescue and first aid.

VOODOO SLAYER'S DEFENSE: BELIEF IN WITCHES, ETC.

Insane, Talked to Self,
'Attorney Declares.

York, Pa., Jan. 8.—[U. P.]—The life story of a person born in an atmosphere of superstition, reared upon witchcraft, "powwow," and voodoo, will be unfolded in the defense of John Blymyer, accused of York's witchcraft murder, Herbert Cohen, Blymyer's attorney, promised today.

When a child reared amid such environment also suffers from a chronic mental trouble his delusions of witchery and day dreams of black magic easily may lead to murder, Cohen argued.

Not Childhood Fantasies.
So he promised a willing courtroom that he would show that to John Blymyer hobgoblins and "bogey men" were not just childhood fantasies useful to frighten the neighbors' bad boy out of the family apple tree but that even at the age of 32 Blymyer still finds them objects of an unshakable belief. He added that he would prove Blymyer had the mentality at 32 of a child of 8 years, and that he was, in fact, insane, and had been for many years.

When all this evidence is in, Cohen said, the jury will be convinced that the tall, thin defendant, who later was described by a witness as having once lost "so much weight he could not buy a cap small enough to fit his head," suffered from chronic insanity which took the form of a delusion of witchcraft and would acquit him on the grounds of mental incompetency.

As Cohen related these dark things about the defendant in his opening statement to the jury, Blymyer, who is accused of murdering Nelson Rehmeyer, sat taking in every word, frowning with a cap which, oddly enough, seemed about the right size after all—which he held on his knee. He gave every evidence of having only the interest of a student of human conduct in the whole affair.

Clayton Hess, the lad who brought Monday's session to a close with the trial's first outbreak of witchery when he testified Blymyer had confided to him, after Nelson Rehmeyer had been murdered, that in killing Rehmeyer he "got the witch," opened the day's testimony. Under cross-examination he told, with all the candor of deep belief, how the object of the attack on Rehmeyer had been to get a "witch knot of hair" to break a spell Rehmeyer had cast over the Hess family.

Some Exhibits in Case.
After that, the remainder of the state's case was exciting. The collar of Rehmeyer's sweater, burned from the garment to which it belonged, clubs, and two partly burned chairs, were among the exhibits in evidence.

Then policemen told how Blymyer had been arrested and of his confession. Defense Attorney Cohen fought hard to gain an admission from them that Blymyer had explained the murder by saying Rehmeyer, known as a man of magic, had cast a spell upon him, but they all denied they had heard any such statement. They told how Blymyer and Wilbert Hess and John Curry, accused with him, had admitted taking an unnamed sum of money—reported to have been $2—

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT
KIDNEY POISON

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to lead your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

POSTMASTER NEW DEDICATES OPENING OF PORTO RICO AIR ROUTE

Miami, Fla., Jan. 8.—[U. P.]—Zooming service planes today closed the all-American air meet celebrating the starting tomorrow of air mail service to Porto Rico.

Tonight Postmaster General New, here to dedicate the new pan-American mail route, spoke to Miami and winter visitors. William F. McCracken Jr., assistant secretary of commerce, predicted that the inauguration of mail service would bring a favorable development in the commercial relations between the two continents.

Among those on the speakers' platform were Lady Mary Heath, British aviatrice; Lieut. Lester Maitland, San Francisco-Hawaii flyer; William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, Detroit to Tokio flyers, and George Halde, pilot for Ruth Elder's attempted trans-Atlantic hop.

Amelia Earhart will fly to Havana, Cuba, tomorrow as the guest of the Pan-American Airways.

That was the state's evidence to support its theory that robbery was the motive of the murder.

Then Blymyer's confession was introduced. It was hardly 100 words long and contained perfunctory admissions that he had struck Rehmeyer on the head with a chair; that he had knocked Rehmeyer down; that he had helped tie him; and had poured water over the body and the floor to erase finger prints. It contained no explanation as to why the murder was done. With that the state rested its case.

Father a Tragic Figure.
Emmanuel Blymyer, father of the defendant, was the first witness called. He was a tragic figure, sitting in the high, white marble witness stand. Blymyer wasn't certain whether he was 58 or 59 and it took him some time to count up that he was the father of six children of whom John was the oldest. When Cohen threatened to get him to tell about John's childhood and the family beliefs in witchcraft, the court ruled that such evidence was not proper until a foundation in the way of evidence indicating John was insane had been laid.

Next came Mrs. Myrtle Downey, who had been Blymyer's landlady for months. She pictured him as a silent individual so far as talking to others was concerned.

"We had to repeat our questions to him before we got an answer," she said. "But he would walk around the house talking to himself of all sorts of things. He always kept his room locked when he was in it. He complained there was something wrong with him and that he was sick."

The state prevented her telling any more about John, because Judge Ray P. Sherwood would not permit questions bearing directly upon John's mental condition until medical experts have testified. The experts will be produced Wednesday, Cohen promised.

COOK DIES OF BROKEN SKULL.
Joseph Harris, 58 years old, a cook living at 2203 East 67th street, died yesterday at the Jackson Park hospital of a skull fracture incurred when he fell from the roof of his home.

LIFE PLUS 114 YEARS IS BIRGER AIDS' SENTENCE

Their "Reward" in Deal to Escape Death.

Marion, Ill., Jan. 8.—[U. P.]—Frankly gambling with the laws they openly flaunted for years, four members of the now scattered gang once led by the late Charles Birger beat the noose today. They were sentenced to 114 years in prison each, plus a full life sentence, on their pleas of guilty to murder.

Every time the anniversary of the murder, Jan. 17, 1927, rolls around, the four defendants were ordered by Circuit Judge Dewitt T. Hartwell to spend five days in solitary confinement. The rest of the time they must spend at hard labor to stone for the machine gun killing of State Patrolman Leroy Price and his wife.

The four defendants, Art Newman, former chief lieutenant of the gang, Freddie Wooten, bank robber; Riley Simmons, highway robber, and Leslie Simpson, a young gangster, pleaded guilty to the charges of murder and conspiracy to murder. In exchange for a recommendation of leniency if they would "tell all."

Gamble and Win.
It was an obvious gamble, as Judge Hartwell consistently had sentenced confessed murderers to the gallows. They "raised the ante" by promising to clear up no less than 27 violent deaths which featured the notorious gang warfare in which they had engaged. Their several stories contained startling charges against men high in authority.

Artie O. Boswell, former state's attorney of the county and the gang's outstanding foe, was the principal target of the gangsters' charges, and

LAW MACHINERY PROTECTS CRIME, PASTOR CHARGES

State's Attorney John A. Swanson has inherited a machine that is not fashioned for law enforcement, but one that works to delay judges and protect criminals, Dr. John H. Williamson, pastor of the Wicker Park Methodist church, declared yesterday in an address on "Can State's Attorney Swanson Enforce the Law?" to the Collegiate club at the Morrison hotel.

Dr. Williamson, who served as Chicago's crime commissioner under Mayor Thompson in 1923, answered negatively the query in his subject.

"Neither Swanson nor any other state's attorney can enforce the law the way the public expects it to be enforced," Dr. Williamson said. "So far as State's Attorney Swanson, and Frank Loesch, too, are concerned, a sincere effort will be made to enforce it, but Cook county's law machine seems designed to make certain lawyers rich and crime a permanent trait."

On the life sentence, the gangsters can become eligible to parole in 20 years, and on each of the 17 year sentences they will be eligible to parole in 19 years—a total of 58 years they must serve unless granted an outright pardon. During the 58 years they face 280 days of solitary confinement.

It was an obvious gamble, as Judge Hartwell consistently had sentenced confessed murderers to the gallows. They "raised the ante" by promising to clear up no less than 27 violent deaths which featured the notorious gang warfare in which they had engaged. ALDERMEN SEEK WAY TO BOLSTER UP WATER FUND

In an effort to get funds for improvements and construction work on Chicago's municipal water system during 1929, Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the council finance committee, has called a conference to determine if $2,500,000 in water certificates can be sold. The certificates are authorized for sale but no buyer can be found, as their legal basis has been questioned.

The finance committee met yesterday to begin work on the water budget for 1929, faced with the necessity of obtaining more money than the controller has estimated can be spent. An almost complete shutdown on improvements and extensions of water mains is probable unless more money is obtained. Last year the committee appropriated $19,546,624 from the water fund. This year, because of the water certificate situation, only $10,222,171 may be appropriated, according to the controller. Nearly all of this amount is needed for the operation and maintenance of the present system.

At Friday's conference, Charles S. Peterson, city treasurer, and Controller George K. Schmidt will be asked to help the committee out of the water fund dilemma.

On the life sentence, the gangsters can become eligible to parole in 20 years, and on each of the 17 year sentences they will be eligible to parole in 19 years—a total of 58 years they must serve unless granted an outright pardon. During the 58 years they face 280 days of solitary confinement.

PROPOSE 1 CENT BOOST IN RETAIL PRICE OF MILK

Marketing Group Would Give Farmer $2.96 1/2.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

An increase in the retail price of milk from 14 to 15 cents a quart was recommended by the Chicago milk marketing committee's fact finding body in a report made public last night after an investigation of the price controversy.

All of the proposed increase would be passed on to the dairy farmer, and would be equivalent to raising the farm price of milk 4 1/2 cents a hundred, making the price $2.96 1/2 cents a hundred for milk containing 3.5 per cent butter fat. The present price is $2.94 a hundred.

The committee also recommended that the milk marketing be put under arbitration and dairy farmers be fully recognized by the distributors. As an alternative, if the arbitration proposal is rejected, it urged that the milk business be handled as a public utility.

Makes Five Recommendations.

The five recommendations of the committee are:

1. That the milk producers' organization be fully recognized by the dealers and that a system of arbitration be set up within the industry to protect the rights of all interests, including the public.

2. That the proposed milk strike be called off.

3. That, if the present price of milk in Chicago does not warrant an increase to the farmer, the price to the consumer be increased 1 cent a quart, and that all of that increase be paid to the producers on a base and surplus plan.

4. That the Chicago milk marketing committee hold itself intact until the present emergency is past, and that it constitute itself into a small working unit to function efficiently.

5. That, if the various elements in the milk industry decline to accept voluntary arbitration, the public be urged to seek legislation putting the milk industry under the regulations of the Illinois commerce commission as a public utility.

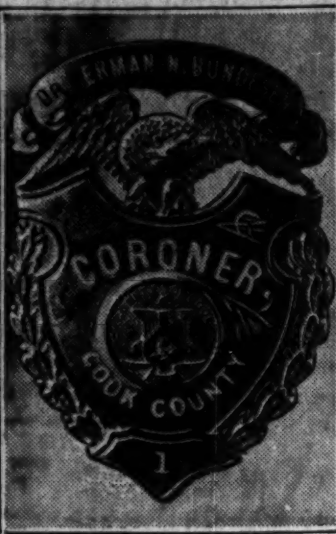

Increase Not a Panacea.

The committee's report is signed by Newton Jenkins, chairman; Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, chairman of the Chicago milk marketing committee, and Dr. Arthur E. Holt. They say that the committee does not pretend that the price increase suggested will give dairy farmers cost of production, but they believe it would "go far toward correcting the situation in the country."

The way the Chicago milk industry is handled today is called "a wasteful system of conflict" that is indefensible, and for which the city will have to pay dearly. Dairy farms are tending toward bankruptcy, the report said, because this wasteful system has decentralized the producing area, increasing the cost of supervision and collection of milk.

It is pointed out that "according to the dealers' own computations, the farmer gets 5 1/2 cents out of a quart of milk which sells for 14 cents, while the dealer gets 8 1/2 cents for distributing it. Any distributing system that takes such an exorbitant toll cannot with very good grace point the finger of inefficiency in anybody's direction.

CORONER'S BADGE

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen yesterday issued shields of a new design to his deputies for the announced purpose of ending reported "shakedowns" with the badges used under the former administration in the coroner's office. At the request of the new coroner, Police Commissioner William F. Russell issued an order to arrest any one wearing one of the old deputy coroner stars. Dr. Bundesen at the same time announced he would not issue any "special deputy" stars, such as were investigated by the special grand jury during the recent regime of former Coroner Oscar Wolf.

A referendum was taken yesterday among farmers who are members of local dairymen's organizations to decide whether they would continue to withhold their milk at the demanded price of $2.85 or accept the dealers' offer of $2.50. The final decision is expected to be made today at Woodstock, Ill., where instructed delegates will meet with officials of the Pure Milk association and vote on the price demand.

MONTANAN CONVICTED OF MURDER.

QUACKS BLAMED FOR BOMBING OF DOCTOR'S HOME

Humiston Lays Blast to Foes of His Campaigning

Dr. Charles E. Humiston, professor of clinical surgery at the University of Illinois medical school, whose home at 149 North Central avenue was bombed early yesterday, stated last night he believed the blast was set by quacks. Dr. Humiston has been a leader in the battle against quackery. He is an ex-president of both the Illinois and Chicago Medical societies.

The bomb exploded near the porch at the Race avenue entrance, which leads into the physician's office. It tore a small hole in the side of the house and broke the windows there and in the new Austin Y. M. C. A. building across the street.

"The bomb was meant for me," Dr. Humiston told Capt. James Fleming of Austin police. "It was placed there, I think, by members of the medical underworld as a protest against my fight to drive quackery out of medicine."

The explosion occurred shortly after midnight while Dr. and Mrs. Humiston and their 14 year old daughter, Jean, were asleep on the second floor. They were awakened, but the blast did not alarm them, Dr. Humiston said, because they believed it had occurred elsewhere in the neighborhood. The physician discovered the damage later.

Dr. Humiston has been an enemy of quackery for several years. In 1923 he was instrumental in the passage of the medical practice act aimed at quacks.

In addition to this professorship Dr. Humiston is a member of the American Medical association, the Illinois State Medical society, and the Chicago medical legislative work. He has medical legislative work.

At a meeting of the council of the Chicago Medical society in the Medical and Dental Arts club last night the board of trustees was instructed to post a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest of the bombers of Dr. Humiston's home.

WOMAN RULES HOUSE CAUCUS OF DEMOCRATS

Sarah B. Hanley's Choice
Sets Political Precedent

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—With a woman, Representative Sarah Bond Hanley of Monmouth presiding as chairman of the house caucus, Democratic members of both branches of the legislature tonight agreed to stand together during the forthcoming session as a united and militant minority.

Representative Michael L. Igoe of Chicago was named minority leader in the house of representatives, while Senator Edward J. Hughes, also of Chicago, will succeed Senator John T. Denvir as leader of the Democratic forces in the upper body.

Both were elected unanimously.

Selection Sets Precedent.
The selection of Mrs. Hanley to preside over a caucus composed almost wholly of men broke all precedents set at legislative party caucuses, according to the old time politicians. It was the first time, they said, that a woman has received such an honor.

Mrs. Hanley is one of six feminine members sent to the house of representatives. Only one woman, Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer of Bloomington, will sit in the senate.

All but one of the sixty-two Democratic representatives, Henry Minsky of Chicago, who is ill, answered the roll call at the house caucus. Thomas F. Denovan, national committeeman and chairman of the state central committee, Mrs. Hanley, and Mr. Igoe spoke briefly, each emphasizing the necessity for loyalty within the party ranks. Mr. Igoe declared that "despite the election results, the legislation at this session is going to have a strong Democratic flavor."

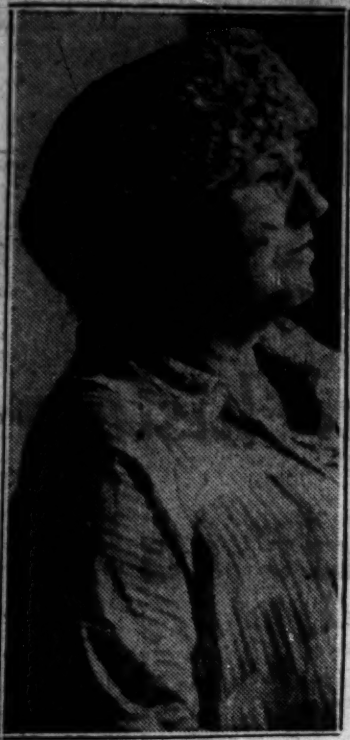

Threatened Battle Fades.
Prior to the minority senate caucus there was much ado about a prospective deadlock between Senator Hughes and Senator Thomas J. Courtney, active young first term member from Chicago for the leader's post, but the threatened battle faded when Senator Denvir after being renominated, withdrew in favor of Hughes.

Courtney explained that although he was pledged the votes of five of the ten senators present, he agreed to step aside for the sake of harmony. Courtney was elected caucus chairman.

"We are only a handful when voting strength is considered, but a dangerous handful, as the Small administration found out," Courtney told the group. "The Democrats should be given a big share of the credit for running the Small crowd out of office."

Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, president of the Cook county board, and Patrick J. Nash, former member of the board of review of Cook county, were present. Mr. Cermak explained the tax and financial situation confronting the city, and the need for legislation to pay for the reassessment of Cook county real estate.

KISS COSTS HIS GIRL FRIEND A BULLET IN KNEE

William Hanson, 6032 Blackstone avenue, a night watchman, had a night off last evening. He went to call on Miss Edith Hampel, 19 years old, a maid in the home of Harry Jarow, 5217 Woodlawn avenue. He left his uniform home, but took along his revolver.

The couple spent the evening at home. When the clock struck 11, Hanson arose to say good night. He put his overcoat under one arm. He put the other arm around Miss Hampel. As they embraced the gun fell from Hanson's pocket and was discharged. The bullet struck Miss Hampel in the left knee. She was taken to Washington Park hospital.

Hanson spent the rest of the night at the Hyde Park police station.

U. S. Ship Beats British Rival in Race to Havana

HAVANA, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—The President Roosevelt, loaned by the United States shipping board to the Ward Line to meet the competition of the Cunarder Caronia, arrived here this afternoon about eight hours before her rival. The American liner had started under a two hour handicap, and for 24 hours had fought a hurricane which blew at the rate of 75 miles an hour.

British Jobless Total 1,520,700; Big Increase

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The British ministry of labor announced the total number of unemployed—being the number on the labor exchange registers—for Dec. 28 as 1,520,700. This was 249,578 more than on Dec. 17 and 184,337 more than on Jan. 2, 1928.

HOOVER TO KEEP MELLON ON JOB IN HIS CABINET

of considerably more of the principal than would be done in a straight discount transaction.

What Mr. Hoover thinks about this scheme S. Parker Gilbert, agent general of reparations, is willing to hear and to carry back to the expectant European chancelleries. Mr. Gilbert has already conferred with Mr. Mellon and Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, and is to see Mr. Hoover before the end of the week. He will be the link between the administration and the unofficial American experts on the commission which will endeavor to settle the reparations question. The two American experts, if acceptable to Mr. Hoover, will be Owen D. Young of New York and Jeremiah Smith of Boston.

Mr. Hoover started the day with Senator William Borah (Rep., Idaho), as his guest at breakfast. They had a protracted conversation on the question of an extra session of congress to settle the reparations question, but Mr. Hoover, it was learned, did not ask Mr. Borah to accept a place in his cabinet.

Borah and State Portfolio.

The politicians have maintained all along that if Mr. Hoover is to reward political services he will beyond a doubt make Mr. Borah his secretary of state. Mr. Borah signally aided Mr. Hoover in the pre-convention and election campaigns. But there are prevalent doubts that Borah will be found in the cabinet for the reason that he does not see exactly eye to eye with Mr. Hoover on a number of foreign questions. Then, too, there is a widespread idea that Mr. Hoover is going to be his own secretary of state with only a glorified clerk holding the portfolio, and Borah, of course, would not accept that rôle.

The Iowa delegation in the house, with Representative Gilbert N. Hansen (Rep.), as spokesman, called at the Mayflower and told the President Elect that as sponsors of farm relief legislation they would prefer to await action by an extra session after the change in administration. Though they did not say so, their reason for this attitude is the belief that a more satisfactory bill will be passed under Hoover than under Coolidge. Besides, they don't want a federal farm board appointed by Coolidge.

Iowa Delegation Calls.

The Iowa delegation did not officially recommend any one for the cabinet, but Representative Chauncey C. Dowell (Rep.) put in a word in behalf of Dante Pierce of Des Moines, publisher of the Iowa Homestead, for secretary of agriculture, while some others boosted J. R. Howard, former president of the American Farm Bureau federation.

Another caller was William Rufus Daws of Chicago, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and of the Mississippi Valley association, who told Mr. Hoover he hoped the valley association would have the privilege of working with him in future waterway development as in the past. Mr. Daws was accompanied by former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton of St. Louis, counsel for the valley association.

AGRICULTURE AND INDUSTRY CLASH ON TARIFF RATES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Dairying and farming interests crossed swords with the manufacturing industry today when requests for duties on casein and arsenious acid were presented to the ways and means committee in its tariff hearings.

W. C. Bacora of the Jardine Matheson company, Jardine, Mont., aroused the opposition of the committee members in favoring farmers by asking transfer of arsenious acid from the free list to the dutiable list with a rate of 4 cents per pound. The acid is the basis of calcium arsenate, used chiefly as a dust in combating the boll weevil in the cotton fields of the south. Committeemen immediately pointed out that the duty would increase the cost of the weevil poison.

Another clash came with the request by coated paper manufacturers that the duty of 2½ cents per pound on casein be removed on the ground the domestic supply is not adequate in quantity or quality. Casein is made from skimmed milk. W. S. Mowbray of Lake Minn., Minn., representing the National Cooperative Milk Producers' association, urged that the duty of 2½ cents be increased to 3 cents per pound, saying ten billion gallons of skimmed milk went to waste in the United States last year for lack of a market, and that dairying interests require protection against casein from the Argentine.

Dr. A. S. Burdick of the Abbott Laboratories, Chicago, asked the committee to place a duty of 60 per cent ad valorem on barbital, a hypodermic compound. American production is practically at a standstill, he asserted, due to imports from Germany under the trade name marked veronal.

British Train Hits Freight in Fog; 3 Killed, 15 Injured

TEWKESBURY, England, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—Two passengers and the engineer were killed today when a train crashed into a freight train at Ash Church in a thick fog. Fifteen passengers were injured, some of whom are not expected to recover.

BECK'S RIGHT TO CONGRESS SEAT UPHELD BY HOUSE

Pennsylvanian Admitted After One Year Fight.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—By a vote of 247 to 73 the house today sustained the right of James M. Beck to a seat as representative from the first district of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Beck, former solicitor general of the United States, was elected to the house in 1926 from the old Vane district in Philadelphia. The fight on his right to the seat began Dec. 5, 1927, when Representative Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee, minority floor leader, challenged it on the ground that Mr. Beck was not an inhabitant of Pennsylvania within the meaning of the language of the constitution. A committee gave hearings in January and February, 1928, and on March 17 the majority reported in favor of Mr. Beck, holding that he had fulfilled the constitutional re-

DR. H. J. SCHIRESON SURRENDERS ON MAYHEM CHARGE

Dr. Henry J. Schireson surrendered at the detective bureau yesterday on a warrant charging him with mayhem. He posted bonds of $10,000 for his appearance in the "Racket" court today before Judge Daniel P. Trude. Monday a deputy bailiff was unable to serve the warrant, being told at the doctor's office that he was in New York. The felony charge was brought by Charles Erickson, 433 West 19th street, who alleged that his nose was mutilated in nine operations performed by Dr. Schireson and intended to straighten it.

requirement of "inhabitaney." The minority report, filed by Representatives Browning of Tennessee and Wilson of Mississippi, Democrats, held to the contrary.

Today's roll call came on a motion made by Mr. Browning that Mr. Beck be denied the seat, because of alleged disqualification. The majority that voted against this motion was made up of a large number of Democrats. With the defeat of this motion the vote recurred on the resolution reported by the committee, which held that Mr. Beck was qualified for house membership.

DISCUSS PHONE DISPUTE AT MASS MEETING TONIGHT

(Picture on back page.) Action in the rate controversy between the Illinois Bell Telephone company and owners of loop hotels, drug stores, and State street stores, is expected at an open mass meeting of the latter group at the City club tonight. Officials of the Chicago Hotel Men's association, the Chicago Retail Druggists' association, chain drug stores, and loop department stores will attend the meeting. Private subscribers and officials of the telephone company have been invited.

Among the speakers tonight are: Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel, representing the druggists; Harry J. Krueger, president of the Chicago Retail Druggists' association; Ald. Willey W. Mills, Attorney Edwin W. Munger, and Tracy Drake, president of the Drake Hotel company. Statements from State Senator John J. Boehm and Charles Walgreen, head of the Walgreen stores, who are out of the city, will be read at the meeting. Members of the Chicago Hotel Men's association declined to make a statement concerning a conference at the Congress hotel yesterday. John K. Blatchford, secretary, denied any action was taken at the meeting. Failure of the Illinois Bell Telephone company to reject the city's offer of a ninety day extension of its franchise, which expired last night, caused the council extension ordinance to become effective today, according to Ald. Jacob M. Arvey (24th). Council for the company refused to agree to the extension, but a clause in the ordinance, Ald. Arvey said, made it necessary for the company to formally reject it to make it nonactive.

FINE FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION. Mrs. Anna Kulowinski, 44 years old, 1237 Dodge avenue, Evanston, was fined $50 and costs yesterday on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor, by Justice of the Peace Willis R. Brightman in Evanston.

TRANSIT SNARL GETS A LITTLE MORE TANGLED

Attorneys Meet and Add
New Difficulties.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The transit negotiations became decidedly more tangled yesterday. Last June the representatives of the companies and the city agreed they would prepare an ordinance franchise acceptable to both sides, and then ask the legislature for laws to make it effective. They proceeded on that plan until yesterday. Then came these varied views:

Weymouth Kirkland, attorney for the north and west side surface lines, questioned the constitutionality of the ordinance prepared by the aldermen, on which negotiations have been proceeding for several months. He suggested that the negotiators revert to a proposed ordinance, prepared by former Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch, and that every one agree upon the bills to be asked of the legislature and ask for them.

Bushy for Pending Ordinance.
Leonard A. Bushy, president of the south side surface lines, opined that it "would be fatal to abandon the pending ordinance." He urged an agreement on the fundamentals in this proposed ordinance, and then recourse to the legislature.

Patrick J. Lucey, attorney for the elevated roads, said that the pending ordinance is unconstitutional in two respects. Apparently he, too, wanted to drop the pending ordinance and agree upon enabling legislation, but he did not say so.

The aldermen feel that an attempt is being made to jockey them into a position of supporting enabling legislation before an agreement is reached on an ordinance franchise. They believe such action will mean the defeat of the bill. After the ordinance has been read once, Assistant Corporation Counsel John G. Drannan and Frederick Bangs prepared and gave out bills to confer the power to make the ordinance effective.

Agree on Subway Bill.

A meeting was held last night in the offices of Sidney S. Gorham, attorney for the citizens' committee appointed by Federal Judge Wilkerson to aid in a transit settlement. This developed other barriers to transit peace. The conferees agreed upon a bill permitting the city to build subways by special assessments. When Attorney Lucey for the elevated roads questioned whether a valid law providing special assessments for subways can be enacted by the legislature. Another agreement was reached on amendments to the cities and villages act, by which no limitation will be placed upon street railway franchises. The law now prohibits a grant of more than 20 years.

Then followed a long discussion of a bill permitting the granting of indeterminate franchises because the city sought the power to prohibit a decrease in fares for ten years in order to insure money for needed extensions. Mr. Lucey served notice that the elevated will not support such a clause and James Sheehan for the north and west side surface lines argued at length that it is illegal. Harry P. Weber, for the south side surface lines, desired power conferred upon the city to prescribe a fixed rate of

ATTORNEY GENERAL DELAYS HEARING ON STEPHENSON'S WRIT

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—(Special.)—The Indiana supreme court today extended until Feb. 19 the time in which James M. Ogden, state's attorney general, will be permitted to answer the petition of D. C. Stephenson for a writ of coram nobis.

Originally, the petition had been scheduled for hearing last Saturday, but Ogden requested an extension to prepare for the case, which was brought up under the administration of Arthur L. Gillon, attorney general until Jan. 1.

Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, and Hoosier political czar, is serving a life sentence in state prison for murder. His petition for a writ of coram nobis was filed in an effort to prove his charges that "mob violence" prevented him from receiving an impartial trial.

return for invested capital, and this was offensive to the elevated road and other surface line representatives. Assistant Corporation Counsel John G. Drannan and Frederick Bangs represented the city.

Says Ordinance Is Illegal.

At one stage in the discussion, Mr. Lucey said that the pending ordinance "is illegal, unconstitutional and otherwise objectionable from cover to cover."

Sundry objections made to the city's proposed bills also indicated there is strong company opposition to the proposed ordinance franchise. In addition to the bills prepared by the city's lawyers, the conferees discussed bills prepared by Attorney Gilbert Porter for the transit interests. The lawyers are to meet again Thursday morning.

One of the company representatives suggested that the aldermen discuss the bills at their session this morning. "I see no reason whatever for considering bills until we have decided what sort of a franchise we want to sanction," said Ald. E. I. Frankhauser, chairman of the subcommittee. "It is possible to prepare an ordinance that will not need legislation. We have the right to grant a 20 year franchise now."

Harris to Appear Today.

A. W. Harris of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, who is chairman of the bondholders' protective committee under the first mortgage on the Chicago Railways company, gave out a statement a few days ago saying that the financial plan in the pending ordinance is unworkable. Mr. Harris has been invited and agreed to appear before the subcommittee this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

But the aldermen's plans for the meeting this morning may be knocked aside. At yesterday's session, it had been planned in advance to reach an agreement or disagreement on the rate of return on the present investment in transit properties. Attorney Kirkland headed off a discussion on that subject by questioning the constitutionality of the city's paying discounts of securities issued by the proposed new transit company.

"It is almost impossible to consider this ordinance without considering the constitutional questions involved," said Mr. Lucey in turn. "We do not think this ordinance can be whipped into shape to meet these constitutional objections. The city has no power to go into partnership in the transit business, as this ordinance proposes. We are in favor of a service at cost ordinance."

"What do you call this ordinance?" put in Kelker.

"A municipal ownership and amortization ordinance," answered Lucey.

"What constitutes service at cost?" asked Kelker.

"Cost of operation first," replied Lucey.

"You cannot have a fare that will exactly pay operation and fair return without a residue," observed Kelker.

"What would you do with that?" "Turn it in to the city," said Lucey.

"Just as this ordinance provides," repeated Kelker.

"But you provide a financial scheme which creates too large a residue," protested Lucey. "What is the object of having so much money turned over to the city?"

"There are two objects," said Kelker. "The first is to provide money for extensions and improvements. We have learned by experience that we cannot get the extensions unless the cash for them is provided."

Would Safeguard Franchise.

"But the second reason is to safeguard the franchise," went on Kelker. "This ordinance provides for an indeterminate franchise. The only way for the city to prevent that from being perpetual is for the city to buy."

"I do not think the people want to grant a perpetual franchise."

"LIFE FOR PINT" MAY SHRINK TO MERE 15 YEARS

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—A mandatory prison term of from 7½ to 15 years will be recommended for habitual violators of the prohibition law under the administration's program for modification of the present act, which puts away dry law offenders for life if they are convicted four times.

Attorney General Wilbur M. Brucker is working out a complete plan for classification of felons under the habitual criminal section of the code, and it is expected that this program, carrying the stamp of approval of Gov. Fred W. Green, will be submitted to the legislature soon. The administration believes that the habitual bootlegger should not be made immune from the cumulative penalty for repeated offenses such as is provided for other lawbreakers, and to this end a mandatory indeterminate sentence with a lengthy minimum term will be suggested for fourth offenders, to be increased for those convicted five or six times.

Two Classes of Felons.

Under the plan worked out by the administration, major felonies will come under the present code provision of a mandatory life sentence for fourth offenders. Listed under this classification will be murder, arson, rape, highway robbery, and burglary. Many other minor felonies will be left on the books as unclassified, repeaters being given gradually harsher sentences, but not the extreme penalties provided under the present habitual criminal act.

It is presumed that the administration bill embodying these amendments will be submitted for introduction soon, as Representative Robert D.

Wardell, Detroit, a foe of prohibition, is planning to offer a measure in the immediate future which would place prohibition offenses in the category of misdemeanors instead of felonies.

Dry Oppose His Plan.

Dry sentiment in the legislature, it is believed, will be too strong to allow passage of this bill, despite the prejudice aroused against the present situation by such cases as those of Mrs. Etta Mae Miller and Fred Palm of Lansing and Channie Tripp of Flint, all of whom have been given life sentences for prohibition offenses. It is possible that Wardell's bill will be held in committee until the administration measure appears.

With the announcement today of the house committee chosen by the speaker, Fred Ming, it was disclosed that a minister, Representative Andrews H. Harnly, Saginaw, is chairman of the committee on the liquor traffic.

BOY RUNS INTO STREET; KILLED.
Rockford, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Warren Peck, 7, was killed by an automobile this afternoon when he ran into the street.

MAN AND BRIDE SUFFOCATED IN FIRE AT JOLIET

Wilbur Walker, 25 years old, of Joliet and his 21 year old wife, Helen, were suffocated in their beds by smoke yesterday during a fire which destroyed a rooming house at 418 Cass street, in the downtown district of Joliet. The lives of a dozen other tenants of the three story brick building were endangered by the blaze.

The fire caused damage estimated at $20,000. Its origin was undetermined. Mr. and Mrs. Walker, who had been married only two months, were cut off from escape when the flames enveloped the only stairway. Firemen, handicapped by the zero weather, rescued Mrs. Catherine Bacalis, who was ill, and Harry Connor, a cripple. The other tenants escaped to the street in night clothing.

C. & N. W. STARTS ITS ARGUMENTS IN PAY DISPUTE

The Chicago and North Western railroad yesterday presented its side of the wage controversy with its maintenance of way employees when the United States board of mediation resumed hearings at the Congress hotel. Contending that several of the issues raised were not embodied in the original agreement, the railroad moved to strike out various claims submitted by the employers' organization.

A conference was called between representatives of the railroad and employees during the session, to iron out some of the disagreements which had interrupted the hearing. It was said the hearings will probably continue for two or three more days.

These Coats are typical Stevens coats, beautifully made of the finest pelts, from our very best manufacturing furriers. They are New Coats, just arrived, and shown for the first time—here—today. Do not let the substantial savings deceive you as to exceptional quality. Every Coat in this sale will give you service, style, beauty!

With these new coats we have grouped our own stocks, at additional markdowns, so that they may compare in value.

The items below give you an idea of the wonderful values.

The first price quoted indicates the former price in our stock or, in the case of the new coats, the price at which they would have been marked in our stocks... Though there are hundreds of coats, we advise your selection today.

Enthusiasm that is new every day

With the commencement of every day the Henrici organization goes about its business of providing food and service with all the enthusiasm of effort to excel that one might expect of an institution which had opened its doors to the public for the first time.

And this has been going on with unfaltering regularity for more than sixty years. Of course, there is only one place to look for the reason such consistency has been possible, and that is to the deep and abiding sincerity of purpose which underlies Henrici operation in every detail.

Every individual connected with Henrici's is unmistakably aware that the welfare and interests of patrons are, most conscientiously, the matters of first importance and entitled to first consideration under all conditions.

From the very origin of the enterprise, away back in the third year after the Civil War, such has been the viewpoint of the Henrici organization—not as a matter of coldly calculated business policy but as a matter of that sort of pride which really competent people take to the tasks to which they devote their lives.

When the luncheon hour comes today think of Henrici's as a place where you may lunch with a degree of assurance and satisfaction of more importance to your health and happiness than casual thought may suggest.

COMPLEX OF 'DRY FANATIC' SOUGHT BY PSYCHOLOGIST

Vienna Savant on Way to
U. S. to Make Study.

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PARIS, Jan. 8.—America's fanatical prohibitionists are psychologically interesting, in the opinion of Dr. Alfred Adler, a Viennese psychologist, who is in Paris en route to the United States to make a study of the complex of mind which is the basis of the prohibition principle, he said today, but cannot find words of enough strength to condemn the high minded gentry of America who would kill to cure.

"These fanatical prohibitionists, who are one of the most striking features of American civilization, amaze me," he said. "They appear to be like a child taking a drink in the worst sense in the world and want all those who disagree with them put in jail. 'Just Immensely Egotistic.'"

"Men of this class think they are animated by lofty motives, but they are mistaken. In reality they are immensely egotistic, presenting the same phenomenon as a pampered child who develops an inferiority complex when he finds the rest of the world will not bow down and serve. He becomes furious when society refuses to obey him."

"Attacks Increase His Fury."
"Every attack on him only increases his fury and doubles his thirst for revenge. This is exactly the same state of mind which is found in certain types of criminals. Richard Loeb, Nathan Leopold, and William Hickman committed their crimes with exactly the same motives as those which make the fanatical prohibitionist want to burn his enemies at the stake. Before egotistical passion of such intensity all scruples disappear."

MEXICO TO FIGHT EMIGRATION OF ITS LABOR TO U. S.

Plans Huge Works to Keep Men Home.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MEXICO CITY, Jan. 8.—The Mexican government will fight by all legitimate means the emigration of Mexican laborers, it was announced today. Although not ostensibly aimed at emigrants who go to Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and other southwestern states, the proposed plan of the government will largely affect the supply of labor to these states.

"The government of President Emilio Portes Gil has awakened to the fact that Mexico is losing through emigration the most resourceful and capable part of its laboring classes."

The plan for the retention of Mexicans in Mexico is on a vast scale, according to the official statement. It includes the building of highways, dredging and reconstruction of present ports and the building of more harbors, construction of railways, highways, and irrigation works, encouragement of mining and solution of the agrarian question, making possible the recreation of agriculture throughout Mexico, where more than half the available agricultural lands are not now worked.

VIII Sell Land on Easy Terms.
The Bank of Mexico, government owned, will work through its numerous branches to reestablish agrarian credit and give financial help to small farmers and ranchers. Farms will be and the time has come to keep them at home by offering them the same or better opportunities than they could obtain abroad," a prominent member of the government said.

Plan Many New Works.

Every cabinet minister will be called upon to do his best to make Mexico more attractive to laborers and mechanics than foreign countries. The plan for the retention of Mexicans in Mexico is on a vast scale, according to the official statement. It includes the building of highways, dredging and reconstruction of present ports and the building of more harbors, construction of railways, highways, and irrigation works, encouragement of mining and solution of the agrarian question, making possible the recreation of agriculture throughout Mexico, where more than half the available agricultural lands are not now worked.

The Bank of Mexico, government owned, will work through its numerous branches to reestablish agrarian credit and give financial help to small farmers and ranchers. Farms will be given to all laborers having sufficient farm knowledge to farm successfully. Thousands of acres of irrigated government owned lands will be sold on easy terms, the payment stretching over a score of years, to Mexicans now farming in the United States, as an inducement to return to Mexico. Oil production, mining, and factories will be given special encouragement, and automobiles and airplanes will be employed for rapid transportation of freight, passengers and mail, in an endeavor to bring country life in contact with the towns and cities.

All this is expected to create a vastly increased demand in Mexico for labor. Labor employment centers will be opened in every Mexican state to take care of unemployed labor and to transport laborers to centers demanding labor. Agrarian centers will be organized and labor unions will be given facilities to help uplift labor.

KEED ON STOLEN GOODS CHARGE.
Theodore Kervod, 38 years old, was charged yesterday by Des Plaines street police with receiving stolen property after $500 worth of dress and cloths which he said he had bought for $70 were found in his restaurant at 1185 West Harrison street.

DIES AS PAUPER, STILL HOPING TO INHERIT RICHES

Nephew of Millionaire
Fails in Quest.

Benjamin Wycott, 50 years old, an itinerant machinist, found dead in a cheap west side rooming house, was identified yesterday as a nephew of the late Alexander Terwilliger, an early settler in Florida, who died in Miami in 1919, leaving an estate estimated at $3,000,000.

Claimed Interest in Estate.
Correspondence found among Wycott's shabby clothing indicated that for many years he claimed an interest of $475,000 in his uncle's estate. Letters from lawyers showed that he was living in hope of inheriting riches while wandering about the United States, accepting odd jobs. The final news from the attorneys stated that he was not mentioned in Terwilliger's last will and testament.

Other letters disclosed that Wycott survived by a widow, Mrs. Ina Wycott, and four children living in Thomaston, Ga. In Thomaston last night Mrs. Wycott said she and her husband separated five years ago and she had heard from him but once since.

Heart Trouble Causes Death.
Coroner Herman N. Bunden reported that Wycott had evidently died from heart trouble. His body was found in a rooming house at 1602 West Adams street on Monday afternoon. Apparently, he had been dead for several days.

Terwilliger, the clippings related, moved to Florida from Canada in the nineties and purchased many acres of cheap swamp land. The real estate boom found his property in the center of sudden development and his fortune was made.

Donald G. Hamilton Sued for Divorce by His Wife
Donald G. Hamilton, son of the late John L. Hamilton, downstate banker and former president of the American Bankers' association, was sued for divorce in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Florence Pulford Hamilton of Wheaton, Ill., daughter of A. H. Pulford of Winnipeg, Canada, an extensive land owner. The bill, drawn by Attorney Benjamin B. Davis, alleges cruelty and, as one of the acts, sets up that the defendant took money from the toy bank of his son, Donald Pulford Hamilton, 6 years old.

11 DIE IN RUSSIAN YOUNG PEOPLE'S SUICIDE LEAGUE

MOSCOW, Jan. 8.—[U. P.]—A fantastic fraternity of self destruction—the league of death—which caused eleven young communists to take their own lives in a flaming revival of the pessimism of Slav literature, is reported from the distant town of Llesva, in the Urals. Both boys and girls were its victims.

The victims of the "league of death" held meetings for pessimistic discussions of life and poetry which glorified death.

The first of the suicides to puzzle the town was that of Ivan Breshin, one of the best known and most popular young men in the communist circles of Llesva. His body was found hanging from a rafter in his home. A note of farewell to his comrades asked that they give him a good funeral. He was buried with magnificent ceremony.

Shortly after—late last summer—the secretary of the local organization at Llesva received a letter from Faina Nevolnikh, announcing that the girl was about to die and suggesting that she be dressed prettily and adorned with flowers at her funeral. Her body was found in the forest a few days later.

GOOD ADVICE ON AVOIDING INFLUENZA GIVEN BY HEALTH OFFICIALS

Plenty of sleep, wholesome food, fresh air, regular exercise—these are strongly recommended by health officials in the many sections of the country where influenza is prevalent. It is most important now that every precaution be taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

If possible, keep away from crowded places, and especially from persons who are sneezing, sniffing and coughing. Use plenty of water, inside and out. Wash regularly before eating. Keep your hands away from your face at all times. If you have a cold, take the best care of it and consult your doctor.

Many people have made it a practice to use Vapex regularly, a drop on a folded handkerchief every morning. This is of great assistance in avoiding colds and kindred ailments. Breathe the Vapex vapor frequently during the day, especially while mingling with crowds. The odor is pleasant and refreshing. The strength of one application lasts for an entire day, even increases for several hours. Buy a bottle of Vapex from your druggist, in the little square bottle and the package with the green triangle.

GRAND JURY GETS FACTS FOR NEW ELLER TRUE BILL

Court to Open Police and Pay Roll Quiz Today.

Part of the evidence on which a new indictment is to be asked against Morris Eller, city controller, was presented to the grand jury yesterday afternoon by Special Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber. C. Ray Hanson and Russell Sampson, Chicago Bar association watchers, who were kidnapped on primary day, April 10, 1928, and Joseph Robinson, a colored watchman, were among the witnesses yesterday.

Expected to Be Week's Job.
Prosecutor Raber announced that it would take practically all week to present the necessary evidence to obtain the new indictment. The regular grand jury, which is hearing the testimony, will devote afternoon sessions to listening to the Eller evidence.

The prosecutors are asking the new indictment because they wish to link some of the election day terrorists with the Eller and place them as joint defendants before a jury. Under the present indictment the Ellers would be tried alone, their former co-defendants having been convicted and fined.

Impanel Special Jury Today.

The special grand jury which is to carry on the investigation of the sanitary district pay rolls and the police department will be impaneled at 2 o'clock this afternoon by Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court. First Assistant State's Attorney Frank J. Loesch, who as a special prosecutor had charge of the previous special grand juries and who will take over the present investigation, announced yesterday that the new jury will not start to work until early next week.

The 75 men drawn for service on the special jury will appear this afternoon and from the list the 23 who will constitute the panel will be selected.

Business Men on List.

Among those called for service are Isaac Fish, president of the L. Fish Furniture company; David M. Lazarus, president of the Howard Millinery company; and Leo Raemer, vice president and general manager of the C. F. Noyes National Realty corporation.

Sidney S. Sennott, president and treasurer of the Illinois Builders' Supply company; T. R. Thorsen, vice president of the National Republic Safe Deposit company; and Philip N. Sea of the Lake Shore Athletic club are others called for jury duty.

PACIFISTS FIND SENATE FAVORS 15 CRUISER BILL

Of 20 Talked To Only 3
O. K. Their Program.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Pacifist lobbyists stormed Capitol Hill late today in search of converts in their drive against the cruiser replacement program, but found the senate apparently overwhelmingly in favor of passing the pending bill, providing fifteen 10,000 ton cruisers for the United States fleet.

Only twenty senators were found by the buttonholing delegations, and of this number seventeen announced flatly they will vote for the cruiser legislation. The other three stated they would fight the measure when it comes up for action, probably within the next few days.

Would Put All on Record.
Pacifist leaders had hoped to put the entire membership of the senate on record as one of the features of a great anti-cruiser demonstration, in which delegates from each state would bring personal pressure upon its senatorial representatives.

These plans were dashed, however, when only a few states sent representatives to the conference.

The conference was called by the citizens' committee, an organization headed by Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of both the boards of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church and the Federal Council of Churches, the great church propaganda agency.

Small Number at Meeting.
A multitude of pacifist organizations were represented at the meeting, but the number of laymen was small.

Miss Lydia Schmidt of 5783 Blackstone avenue, Chicago, was the first to report. She had seen Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.], and "had been unable to make any impression upon him."

"He wants cruisers," she said, "and nothing I could say would change his mind."

Another member of the Illinois delegation reported that Senator Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.] had been out when he called.

Other Senators Favorable.
Other senators found in favor of the cruiser bill were Edward I. Edwards [Dem., N. J.]; William Cabell Bruce [Dem., Md.]; Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.]; Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.]; Frederic M. Sackett [Rep., Ky.]; Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.]; Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.]; Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.]; Jesse H. Metcalf [Rep., R. I.]; Peter G. Gerry [Dem., R. I.]; David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.]; Lee S. Overman [Dem., N. C.]; F. Simmons [Dem., N. C.]; David L. Walsh [Dem., Mass.]; and Senator Henrik Shipstead [Farm-Labor, Minn.].

The three against the bill were Senators Gerald P. Nye and Lynn J. Frazier [Reps., N. D.], and Smith W. Brookheart [Rep., Ia.].

Canada Names S. O. Meara Trade Commissioner Here

Relations Between Mexico and Nicaragua Resumed

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Relations between Mexico and Nicaragua, which were broken off when Mexico refused to recognize the government headed by Adolfo Diaz, were automatically resumed when President Emilio Portes Gil replied to New Year's congratulations from President Moncada of Nicaragua.

It seemed apparent, however, that

PACIFISTS STALL KELLOGG PACT TO KILL CRUISERS

Boggle Over Senate Interpretation.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Pacifist influences were credited today with being a factor in holding up negotiations for an early ratification of the Kellogg war renunciation treaty.

Senate leaders were unable to perfect an agreement by which an interpretation of the treaty would be embodied in a report from the committee on foreign relations. The chief stumbling block was reported to be the insistence of proponents of the treaty that the reservationists should agree not to offer a motion on the floor of the senate for the approval of the proposed committee report. Negotiations were still in progress tonight and something may develop from them tomorrow.

It seemed apparent, however, that the pacifist groups which have sought approval of the treaty without reservations or interpretations were content to let the debate drift along for a few days.

Scheme to Kill Cruiser Bill.
Their theory was that they have sufficient votes to obtain ratification and that the more time is used up the better is their chance of killing the fifteen cruiser bill, which will come up when the treaty is out of the way.

Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] offered a revised resolution today hitting at the British self defense reservation. Senator Blaine is to take the floor tomorrow in support of the resolution.

Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] asserted in the debate today that "it is absolutely necessary to our interests and to our honor that we make our position so clear that there can be no misunderstanding now and no unjust accusation in the years to come."

Attacks Kellogg's Attitude.
Senator Moses criticized Secretary of State Kellogg for his unwillingness to approve some sort of an official interpretation of the treaty.

"The imperious impatience of the secretary of state is well known to some of us," said Senator Moses. "He was not always right then, and I do not think him right now."

"It seems to me inescapable that our government has committed itself in advance to an implied recognition of the legality of action taken by Great Britain, France and other powers within the league of nations or in accordance with other treaty obligations in disregard of American interests. Europe believes we are a committee, not merely to a role of passive acquiescence, but even of active cooperation against disturbances of international peace."

Man, Wife, and Niece Die
When Garage Burns Down

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Allen Doane, 56, his wife, Annie, 55, and their niece, Thelma, 9, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed a garage building at Hazel Park, near here, early today. The three occupied an apartment on the third floor of the building.

40% OF GERMAN WAR DEBT BONDS TO BE SOLD U. S.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Final settlement of the irritating question of reparations will, it was predicted in reparations circles today, come with the advent of spring.

This forecast was based on the work of the Dawes committee. Men closely associated with the new effort to end financial controversies between Germany and the allies calculated it would require two months to go over the ground again.

The experts will assemble in Paris the first Monday in February, and their report ought to be due about April 1.

One of the chief tasks of the experts will be to work out some scheme whereby German railroad and industrial bonds, issued as guarantees of the annual payments, may be made commercially negotiable. This, it was said, probably would have an effect on the final total which Germany must pay in order to release herself from all obligations to the allies.

A tentative bond scheme already suggested apportioned securities worth sixteen billion gold marks (four billion dollars) among the different allied countries and Germany, with about forty per cent or $1,600,000,000 left over for American and other neutral financial markets.

The idea back of this scheme is that it would furnish enough ready money to constitute a strong inducement to France for a considerable reduction in the total reparations fixed by the Dawes plan.

Most of the work of the committee will be done in Paris, although the experts will be left free to organize their investigation.

Veteran of Civil War
Shoots Himself to Death

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Benjamin F. Miller, 85, naval veteran of the civil war, shot himself to death at the National Soldiers' home, West Allis, today.

Avoid colds or "flu" by doing two easy things

Keep your system in good condition—
protect your nose
and throat

THERE is no use worrying all winter for fear you will catch cold or get "flu". Do the following two things and forget it: First, keep your system in good condition, and, second, keep your nose and throat well protected. The chances are you will avoid contagion.

As a first precaution, many doctors are prescribing Nujol. It is not a laxative or cathartic but a pure, natural substance that helps your system function at all times the way nature intended it to. Like pure water, it is harmless. Physicians agree that, particularly in times of epidemic, purging by laxatives and cathartics is not advisable.

Many doctors are now prescribing Nujol, as in no case does it cause exhaustion or weakening of the system in any way. Take it every night; it will keep you in first class condition. You will have a far better chance to resist colds or "flu" or any diseases that are going the rounds.

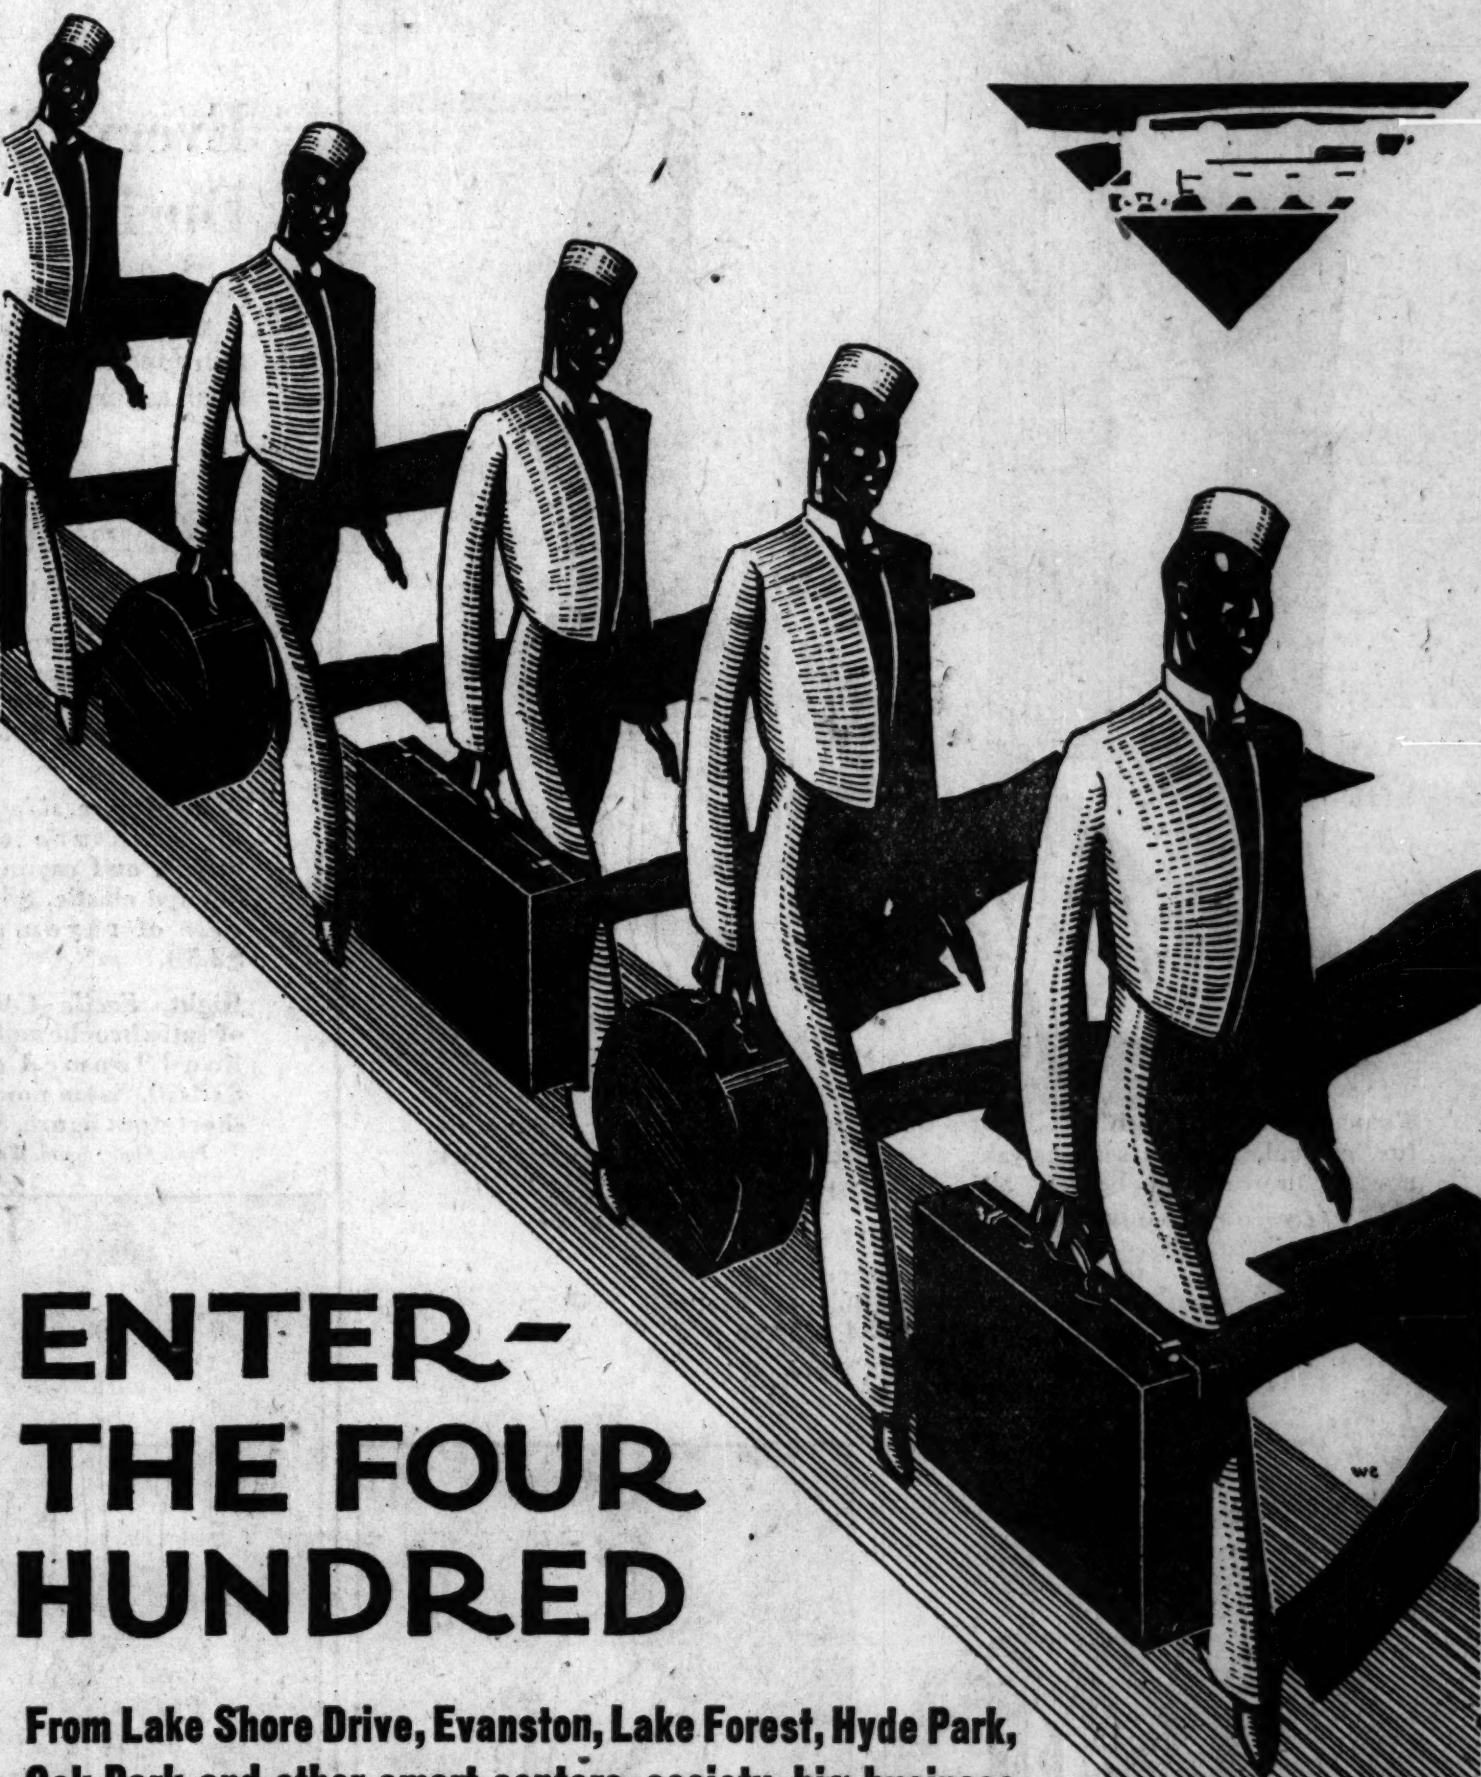

As a second safety measure, use Mistol, as it protects the nose and throat against the germs of influenza. Use it every morning, the first thing, before you go out. Again, when you come home at night. Don't be afraid to use it freely; it will do no harm.

Never has colds

Just tilt your head back and apply Mistol with the special dropper which comes with every package, until you feel it trickling down your throat. It will clear your head wonderfully, relieve any inflammation; it will help dry up a running nose. It has a soothing effect on the throat too. Gargle it for a sore throat or a little irritating cough.

The combination treatment of Nujol and Mistol is a double safeguard against colds and influenza. Start this wise twofold precaution now. Put worry out of your mind. Nujol and Mistol are on sale at all druggists.

PAID ACCUSED SLAYER TO KEEP EYE ON HUSBAND

Wife Testifies in Trial of Indiana Case.

Elkhart, Ind., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Jennie Reyher, wife of Charles Reyher, a real estate operator of South Bend, today was called by the state to testify in the trial of a former detective, charged with murder, who she engaged to shadow her husband and another woman.

The detective, Harvey L. Smith, is accused of the slaying of Mrs. Genevieve Stults of Mishawaka, a beauty parlor proprietor, a friend of her husband. The state contends it was Mrs. Stults' bones that were found in a limestone pile near Elkhart. She disappeared last March 24.

Witnesses Make Identity.
Mrs. Reyher was called after testimony of several witnesses to establish identification of the body found in the limestone pile.

Much of the questioning of Mrs. Reyher was based on admissions she is alleged to have made when questioned by authorities last summer, soon after finding of the bones. She proved a reluctant witness and frequently replied she did not remember.

She admitted she had hired Smith to shadow her husband in his alleged relations with Mrs. Stults, and that she had paid the detective $50 a few days before March 24 to scare Mrs. Stults and "get her away."

Gave Car to Smith.
She also admitted having caused her son, Keith Reyher, to leave the Reyher automobile near the Y. M. C. A. March 24 for Smith to use in disposing of Mrs. Stults; that she and her husband attended a theater on the night of Mrs. Stults' disappearance and that she had received a phone message from Smith after returning from the show.

BYRD, FROM ICE FLOE, SENDS 1929 GREETINGS TO FRIEND IN RACINE

Racine, Wis., Jan. 8.—[AP.]—A new year's greeting from Commander Richard E. Byrd, in his camp on the great ice barrier in the antarctic, has been received by William Horlick of Racine, personal friend of the explorer.

The greeting was radioed to New York in care of Byrd's personal representative there and mailed to Mr. Horlick who received it today.

It reads: "Byrd camp, ice barrier, via S. S. City of New York, Jan. 4, 1929.—William Horlick, via Railway, New York:

"We are on the ice at last and I am sending the new year in a small tent 23 miles from our base on the great ice barrier. Happy New Year to you, —Richard E. Byrd."

SALVATION ARMY MEETS TO DECIDE IF BOOTH IS "FIT"

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Jan. 8.—Nothing of importance resulted from the first meeting today of the Salvation Army high council at Sunbury court, Sunbury-on-Thames. The meeting was occupied the entire day, from the opening at 10:30 a. m., with routine business.

According to an official statement issued tonight, today's three sessions were occupied with setting up machinery for the conduct of the conference, appointing subcommittees, etc.

The only item of interest in the official report was:

"At the first session a message expressing love and sympathy for him in his illness was sent to the general."

The sessions were closed in deep secrecy and were reinforced by strong walls, locked gates, and husky guards as the high council gathered to decide whether Gen. Bramwell Booth is fit to continue as supreme head of the Salvation Army.

One by one, the sixty-three members of the council cautiously were admitted through the barricaded gate to the secluded building, while a system of whistle signals informed the occupants of the house whether the arrivals were bona fide, questionable, or required the attention of the guards.

One member was absent. The huge crowd had to content itself with gathering at the freshly-painted gates and cheering the arrivals. They also cheered the unsuccessful attempts of journalists and others to crash the gates or scale the wall.

Fifteen minutes after the council was assembled, Commissioner Hay, 65, territorial commander of New Zealand, was unanimously elected chairman. The assemblage sang the Salvation Army hymn and then adjourned for three-quarters of an hour to permit the various sections to consider the resolutions they proposed to present.

Deny Northcott Change of Venue in His Trial

Riverside, Cal., Jan. 8.—[AP.]—Judge George H. Freeman today denied a plea of Gordon Stewart Northcott for change of venue in his trial for the murder of three boys on his chicken ranch. Defense counsel had contended a fair and impartial trial could not be had in this county. Northcott, in support of the request for a transfer, told of an alleged threat made against him by a prisoner.

CAPONE REPORTED LEADER OF FIGHT ON AID. PRIGNANO

Hot Election Battle in 20th Ward Forecast.

Al Capone, king of gangland, was declared by west side politicians yesterday to be the real instigator and promoter of the fight against A. J. Prignano in his candidacy for reelection in the 20th ward.

From his villa at Miami, Fla., Capone is said to be directing the battle in the badlands, the 20th being about the toughest spot in Chicago's politics. The politicians declare it will form a test of strength to see who is dominant in the Italian vote of the ward, the alky dictator or the respectable element. The Ellers are held to be involved in the struggle.

Prignano, a Democrat, is of Italian extraction, and two years ago he was elected without opposition from the Ellers. Prignano was a protégé of the late Dennis J. Egan, and was his secretary when Egan was bailiff of the Municipal court. The Italian population being heavy in the ward, it was decided to give it representation in the sound through Prignano.

Prignano Anti-Administration.

The story is somewhat involved and sketchy in spots, but, as unfolded by a west side insider, Prignano has been anti-Thompson on most administration measures. This got him in bad with the Ellers. It also gained him the enmity of certain liaison agents between Capone and the city hall. The 20th is a privilege and racket ward, the haunt of alky cooks and "shiners." The old Genna gang had some of its largest stills there, and the ward contains factories where in are fabricated all brands, from the cheapest white mule to expensive pseudo-scotch with the heather tang slapped in with a creosote stick.

From Miami came word that Capone wanted a friendly alderman elected. Some of the Italian leaders at a meeting are said to have rebelled at the notion of the absentee gang ruler, and to have politely invited him to go jump in the gulf stream. Immediately word was spread that a candidate would be brought out against Prignano. Daniel A. Serritella, city sealer and Thompson committeeman of the 1st ward, is said to have started the anti-Prignano movement.

Discuss Pacelli as Entry.

Reports were soon out that State Representative William Pacelli, a Republican, might be run against Prignano. Pacelli, besides being in the state legislature, is ward superintendent of streets and alleys. When word was brought to Morris Ellers that Pacelli might be the starter he is said to have expressed indignation over the idea that Sealer Serritella was going outside the 1st ward and cracking into the 20th. The Ellers were not looking for a fight this spring, being occupied with the proceedings growing out of the murder of Octavius Granady, Deen candidate for ward committeeman, who was killed at the April primaries.

Serritella, however, is said to have overcome his objections to his over-lapping activities, and out of the situation is growing what the politicians expect will be one of the hottest fights of the lot at the Feb. 26 election, with Thompsonism as its issue.

YOUTH GOES ON TRIAL IN KILLING OF SWEETHEART

Gun Fired Accidentally, Defense Claims.

Sixteen months ago Stephanie Clelec, west side Polish girl, was shot to death late one night at Armour and Superior streets by her youthful sweetheart, Frank Schlieben. Only yesterday the wheels of justice began to turn in an effort to place the blame for the loss of her life, as Schlieben went on trial before Judge Thomas Taylor in Criminal court.

It was Stephanie's sweetheart who was assigned and who was charged by Assistant State's Attorney Charles

A. Bellows, in his opening statement to the jury, with not only the direct responsibility for the act, but also with a premeditated intention and threat to kill. He ascribed jealousy as the motive.

Defense Blames Mother.

But it was Stephanie's mother, Mrs. Antonia Clelec, who was made the subject of a vigorous denunciation by Defense Attorney James W. McShane, who, he asserted, had indirectly brought about the shooting. He announced in his opening plea that he expected to show her responsibility in the affair, and that the shooting itself had been accidental.

As outlined by McShane, the defense will attempt to prove that the revolver which killed the girl had been wrested by her from her mother's hand three hours before, when the latter had threatened to commit suicide with it; that "Steffie," as the girl was known, met Schlieben on the street, told him of the incident, and that he took the weapon from her to prevent a repetition of the scene.

Steffie, according to McShane's version, entered into an argument with Schlieben for the revolver, declaring she wouldn't return home without it, and that after repeated refusals, Schlieben brandished the revolver and told her to "go on home or I'll shoot you," hoping to bluff her into leaving it with him.

Mother Takes Stand.

It was while he was pointing the weapon at her that it was discharged, the defense contends, the single shot wounding the girl in three different places, and killing her instantly.

Prosecutor Bellows placed Mrs. Clelec on the stand and brought out in her testimony that Schlieben had once asserted to her that he believed Steffie had "gone on a date" with another boy, and that "if he saw her with any one else he'd shoot her."

The revolver with which she was killed had been in the possession of the Clelec family for fourteen years and had never before been out of its accustomed place until that evening, Sept. 24, 1927. The home is at 821 Rose street.

RECEPTION HURT B NEW R E E S, RADIO HEAD SAYS

Robinson Finds Conditions in U. S. Worse.

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)
Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(Special.)—Radio broadcasting and reception conditions today are being improved as a result of the reallocation of frequencies and power, effective Nov. 11, last, are worse than before, it was asserted today by Ira E. Robinson, chairman of the federal radio commission, in testimony before the house merchant marine committee.

Chairman Robinson was the first witness called by the committee in its hearing on the White bill to extend the life of the radio commission for another year.

The chairman was the only member of the commission who declined to approve the reallocation when it was made, and today he asserted that the new setup had failed to make any substantial reductions in the number of broadcasting stations on the air or to equalize radio facilities as contemplated in the Davis amendment to the radio law.

Wants Radio Authority Extended.
Inference has been drawn from his opinion that he is a major source of trouble, he declared.

Mr. Robinson asserted that, in his opinion, the authority of the commission should be extended until it has solved the problems presented by the Davis amendment.

Through its president, William S. Hedges of Chicago, the board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters, submitted a number of recommendations to the committee.

One recommendation urged extension of the federal radio commission's life to five years, and another urged that the body to which it will entrust the permanent administration of the radio law.

Wants Yearly License.
In recommending that all broadcasting licenses be issued for a period of less than one year, the association asserted "the basis for the entire industry of radio broadcasting is rendered perilously unstable by the limiting of broadcasting licenses to a period of 10 days, thus jeopardizing capital investments."

The association's statement insisted that "mathematically equal distribution of radio broadcasting facilities among the five zones must inevitably fail to produce an equitable distribution of good radio reception," and repeat of the Davis amendment was urged.

FIREMAN GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE
LIFE OF CAPTAIN

Fireman William Donovan of engine company No. 33 gave two-thirds of a pint of blood last night at the Alexian Brothers hospital in a transfusion operation to save the life of Capt. Frank McLaughlin of engine company No. 114, critically ill following a hemorrhage of the stomach. Three other firemen, chosen from more than 200 volunteers, are being held in readiness in case another transfusion is found necessary.

They are John Devine, hook and ladder company 44; Thomas Donohue, engine company 105; and Thomas Heald, squad 8. The operation was performed by Dr. August Zimmerman of the hospital staff, assisted by Dr. Frederick Rettig. Donovan was held at the hospital overnight to recuperate.

Capt. McLaughlin, who is 48 years old, was stricken in the engine house at 642 Fullerton avenue. He was found to be so weak from loss of blood that a call for volunteers for blood transfusion was sent over the fire department ticker.

It's just fine. Don't stuff up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

Elmer Bestows His Praise on Two Programs

They're Beethoven Concert, Lecture on Paganini.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

It would have been profitable if the entire world of music could have heard two radio programs last evening: a Beethoven program from New York, through W-G-N, 8, and an illustrated lecture on Paganini, from WLS, 7.30 to 8.

The Beethoven program was an impressive dramatization depicting episodes in the composer's life, his traits and personal characteristics, with music that was more than incidental.

The musical scheme was presented in a rather original manner, as complex as it was impressive. The program opened with the orchestra playing the first movement of the Fifth symphony.

After the orchestra rehearsed the movement of the Fifth symphony, in which Beethoven himself was supposed to be the conductor. The scene then shifted to Beethoven's study, where Beethoven was composing the opening melody of the second movement of the Fifth symphony.

This led into a hearing of the orchestra taking up the strain and playing it through as Beethoven was supposed to have heard it running through his mind. The final (choral) movement of the Ninth symphony brought the program to a close.

The Paganini program was a lecture by Don Malin, illustrated by sections of the composer's compositions played attractively by Herman Feiler Jr.

Lastly, there were forty-five minutes of thoroughly enjoyable music by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and Frank Barden, tenor soloist, W-G-N, 8.15 to 10. Mr. Barden's singing of "In Distant Lands" from "Lohengrin," and the orchestra's magnificent tonal treatment of Liszt's Second Hungarian rhapsody were highlights of the performance.

INDIANA HARBOR 'SURVEY GIVEN CONGRESS O. K.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP.)—A petition requesting that a survey of Indiana harbor, at East Chicago, Ind., be made with a view of widening the upper channel and dredging the turning basin met with favorable action in congress today.

The house rivers and harbors committee adopted a resolution requesting that a board of army engineers make a survey of the harbor and determine the advisability of the work.

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 8.—The eruption of Calbuco volcano was reported to be declining today. Newspapers say five persons are known to be missing. Nothing has been heard of the seven families comprising the village of Ensenada at the foot of the volcano.

Station WHT on Air Again, Using Word Equipment

Radio station WHT, after a voluntary silence of some time, is back on the air. Under the allocations of Nov. 16, the station, the call letters of which correspond with the initials of Mayor William Hale Thompson, but which is said to have been named from the initials of William Wrigley Jr., U. J. Herrmann and Mayor Thompson, all of whom invested money in it, found itself shut out from the 300 meter waveband down to 202.5 meters and dividing time with several other stations.

It was reported that the station's equipment could not be made to function properly on the lower waveband without a great expenditure of money and as the station was then operating at a loss it was decided to close temporarily. Now it is back on the air, using the equipment of station WOOD, one of those with which it shares time. WHT's backers are said to have come to its aid financially.

The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Barbour & Gustafson chapel, 4141 Cottage Grove avenue. Burial will be private.

JOSEPH LESKE, 89,
CHICAGO PIONEER, TAKEN BY DEATH

Joseph Leske, 89 years old, one of Chicago's early settlers, who came here from Germany in 1866, died yesterday at his home, 6510 Glenwood avenue, from complications following an attack of pneumonia. Despite his age, Mr. Leske was actively engaged in business until he became ill ten days ago. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Hanna Fuchs.

At the time of the Chicago fire, Mr. Leske, then owner of a grocery store at Larrabee and Division streets, sustained a total loss of his business. He was a member of the Old Fellows for fifty years. Funeral services will be held Thursday, interment in Waldheim cemetery.

LONDON, DESPITE FOG, IS BETTER LIT THAN CHICAGO

Has Fewer Posts, but Uses Higher Power.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, Jan. 8.—Despite America's early introduction to the use of electricity, London's streets are better lighted than those of Chicago. This fact was forcibly impressed upon Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE, this morning, when he observed how the high-powered lamps pierced the thick pea soup type of fog for which London is famous.

Col. McCormick expressed surprise at the superiority of the London system for several reasons. Not only should America's earlier start have given it the advantage, but also Chicago has more lamp posts. The higher candlepower of the London lamps, despite their wide spacing, floods the city nightly with a clear light that certainly would be desirable, and could be obtainable in Chicago.

Indoor Lighting Interior.
Even automobile headlights shine with greater brilliance, probably because of a special type of filament. Col. McCormick pointed out, however, that indoor lighting has not advanced here as rapidly as in America. English homes are not so well lighted, and the Englishman seems to prefer sitting in the dark to turning on the light.

One other point of English superiority struck the colonel forcibly. That was the greater skill of London automobile drivers. Every available inch of road is utilized, and the English driver, instead of ploughing straight down the center of the road and not leaving space for passing on either side, keeps to the curb. Of course, the majority of London drivers are professional, whereas nearly every one drives in Chicago.

Introduce American Methods.
Col. McCormick was impressed by the success of two men from across the Atlantic who have combined American and English talents most successfully—Lord Beaverbrook and H. Gordon Selfridge of Chicago. Both men have applied American methods to English customs and have had the acumen to make use of the energetic technique of the new world without forgetting that the technique must be revised in the old world to correspond with the altered surroundings.

As a result of this Lord Beaverbrook, a Canadian, has successfully brought American principles into British journalism without breaking with English tradition, while Mr. Selfridge, who learned merchandising under the greatest of all merchants, Marshall Field, has set a mark for all London merchants.

SERBIA DICTATOR DECREES ENTIRE NEW SET OF LAWS

Courts to Be Under Government.

BY LARRY RUE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BELGRADE, Jan. 8.—Royal laws were issued today by King Alexander, who has made himself dictator of Yugoslavia. The new laws change completely the Yugoslavian jurisprudence and annul all hitherto prevailing laws.

All the law courts of the nation are put under direct control of the government and a new supreme court is created, from which there will be no appeal. All the old laws will be redrafted and an entire new state created.

Jugo-Slavian subjects living in foreign countries will be judged by a new court for the protection of the state, even for actions committed in foreign territories. This follows the Italian Fascist example. They also will be judged for political crimes committed before the present coup d'état and new laws.

Another royal edict convokes a new administration, called the central control, the members of which are the former finance minister and high fiscal functionaries. These men will refer directly to the king concerning all revenues and expenses of the state.

Cuts of Revenues of Ministers.
Another edict deprives former Jugo-Slavian ministers of revenues which they have been receiving. Old councilors of state are to be pensioned.

By these measures the king brushes aside unpopular personal ties and suspected corruptionists.

Another new law, suppressing chauvinist political and religious associations, for the present will not be employed against the Croatian peasant party; also parties of the national minorities, like the German party, will not be hindered.

In Belgrade there are no newspapers, as this is the second Orthodox Christmas day. Croatian newspapers continue to cheer the king's coup d'état and are hopeful that the Croatian desires will be fulfilled. These newspapers, however, avoid speaking of the Croatian autonomy program.

Dr. Machek, president of the Croatian peasant party, said today that the four Croatian members of Gen. Peter Zivkovic's new cabinet will participate without the consent of the Croatian peasant party.

Asks Non-Political Government.
"One new Croatian minister asked my counsel before accepting the portfolio," he said. "I answered: 'Read my communique after my audience with the king, in which I counseled the king to nominate a non-political government, giving guarantees to conform with the wishes of the Croatian peasant-democratic coalition.' I counseled the Croatian to enter the government if it was constituted in conformity with these conditions."

"But actually the new government is not nonpolitical, because important party men of the former government coalition were nominated as ministers. I learn also that Dr. Spaho, leader of the Musselman party, which participated in the last government, is to enter the Zivkovic cabinet. It is clear that I cannot find that the Zivkovic cabinet guarantees to reform the constitution according to the Croatian aspirations, unless these partisans have changed all their old views. The future soon will demonstrate."

This declaration by Dr. Machek does not signify more than mistrust of the new government combination and no mistrust at all of the royal intentions. On the contrary, Dr. Machek himself actively participated in the proposal which will be the basis of the new Jugo-Slavian organization.

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavian, Jan. 8.—The new military dictatorship today ordered the police to enter the homes of Desputes Perrar and Havlicek, leaders, respectively, of the Jugo-Slav peasant party and the Croatian National party, as well as the residences of other Croatian leaders, and to conduct a thorough search for suspicious documents and plans.

Monaco Prince Makes Self Dictator; Ends Constitution
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MONTE CARLO, Jan. 8.—Prince Louis II. of Monaco, following the recent action of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, has announced that the constitution was suspended by "order of the sovereign." The good natured prince added, however, that the constitution is suspended only where it concerns the coming elections, which he wants postponed a little longer in order to straighten up problems which are causing a political crisis just as important in this tiny principality as a crisis in a man sized country.

$1000 PAY TRIBUTE AT BURIAL OF TEX RICHARD

PURDUE BEATS
CHICAGO; ILLINI
WHIP INDIANAMurphy Paves Way for Maroon Defeat.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Purdue won its second conference basketball game and Chicago lost its first one, 35 to 25, at Bartlett gymnasium last night. But Purdue knew it had been in a ball game—most probably a football game—before the finish.

The Boilermakers' game centered around the elongated Stretch Murphy, whose six feet six inches rose above the other players, a tower of safety to which they threw the ball when pressed by the Maroon guards. And well it might, for Murphy scored 11 baskets, nine of them from underneath the back board, and added three free throws for 25 points.

Chicago played a scrambling, fighting game with Changanon and Crawford, its two "bouncers," viciously rough. Players were spilled around the floor so frequently that at times it seemed as if the referee should have called something like "Second down, three to go" when he blew his whistle.

Maroons Lead at Start.

Despite Murphy, who was a tremendous part of the Boilermakers' offense, the Maroons twice made it decidedly uncomfortable for their guests. The first time was in the early minutes of the game when the Maroons took the lead, 5 to 4. Purdue stopped that, and ran its count to 12 points before Chicago got even so much as a free throw.

The score at the half was 19 to 12, with Purdue leading, but again Chicago came from behind to take the lead. Free throws and three fast baskets by Capt. Virgil Gist of the Maroons, who played a great game, sent Chicago into a 20 to 19 lead. The score was tied at 21 and again at 23, but after that Murphy began to lead the hoop again, and it was just too bad.

Battery Tactics Effective at Times.

Chicago's battering, scrambling style of play proved effective at times, but just as often its awkwardness left wide openings, of which the Boilermakers took advantage. It seemed as if the Maroons were trying to average that 40 to 0 football defeat in their charges, particularly as three of Purdue's players, Welch, Harmonson and Eitel had a hand in it.

The scoring seemed to go by spurts. Welch got the first basket but missed both free shots Changanon's foul gave him. Murphy made his first two with a push shot from under the basket. Then Gist got the first of his four points, and one from under the basket, while Kaplan sank a one handed shot and a couple fouls gave Chicago its 5 to 4 lead.

Murphy Battles Ten In.

With the Maroon burst stopped, Purdue started, Murphy clicking in four more under the basket before the end of the half, while Harmonson added one and Boots sank a long shot. Two foul throws and a long shot by Changanon as the gun sounded gave Chicago its 12 points.

Gist's three baskets at the start of the second half and a couple of free throws gave Chicago the lead for a second time, but Murphy tied it with another push shot, and Harmonson got another one and a basket from the foul line by the ever present Stretch, a couple of foul shots by him and Schnatter, and Murphy's one long shot, a basket from the foul line, followed by a couple of foul shots, gave Chicago its 20 to 19 lead.

IN MATCH AT N. Y.

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Charles Seabach, Canadian champion, was leading the world's title holder, Frank Taberski, by more than 80 points at the end of the first two blocks of their special 750 point pocket billiards match here tonight. The totals were Seabach, 252; Taberski, 169.

This afternoon Seabach defeated Taberski, 129 to 76, in 22 innings. Seabach's high run was 33 and Taberski's 27. Seabach won the evening block, 122 to 93, in 13 innings. His high run was 41, Taberski's, 32.

GREENLEAF LEADS HOPPE.

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, recently dethroned as pocket billiard champion by Frank Taberski, has piled up an overwhelming lead over Willie Hoppe, former headline king, in their special pocket billiards match here. Greenleaf, who is playing 1,500 points to Hoppe's 1,200, tonight had rolled up 500 points in the first four blocks, to 139 for Hoppe.

Greenleaf took both blocks today. This afternoon he won, 119 to 37, in nine innings. His high run was 33; Hoppe's 16. Tonight the score was 124 to 29. Greenleaf had one run of 44. Hoppe's best was 14.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 8.—(Special).—The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago Blackhawks battled in an extra session game tonight, the Pirates winning, 1 to 0, on a spectacular goal by Tex White. Credit for the winning score is due Cotton, who made a brilliant assist from a deep corner behind the net as he was surrounded by two Chicago players.

Pittsburgh clearly outplayed the Hawks, whose offense was practically nil. The Chicagoans' showing was in marked contrast to the good games they played on their last visit. Only the veteran, Dick Orvin, was up to standard. He made several good passes, but his mates were in no position to receive them. Gardiner played a good game in the net for the Hawks.

Two chances to tie the score came in the closing minutes of the overtime period, when Dick Orvin and Vic Ripley found the goal unprotected, but both their shots flew high.

Frederickson and Drury had chances for scores while the visitors had only five men on the ice in the first period, but their shots were deflected by Gardiner. The Hawks' only chance to count during the opening session came when three players sped down the ice with only the Pirate defense men to stop them.

The second and third periods were a repetition of the first with little playing interspersed with only short spurts of real hockey. Lineups:

Pittsburgh: Miller, c. Gardner, r. Smith, l. Westwood, r. Darragh, r. March, r. Miller, l. Arthur, l. Fredericksen, c.

Chicago: White, White, Bolway, c. Drury, Chicago, Irvin, A. McKinnon, Louisville, Gotsdiner, Hoffman.

HINT TO TOM CARR
EAR HARVEY: I'm awfully glad Tom Carr voluntarily returned to face the music. He should never have taken flight because that is evidence of guilt. It has been so construed by the courts. Now the thing for him to do is to get a good criminal lawyer. We have several of that sort out here in Iowa.

Now, I'm somewhat of a lawyer myself. Andy Gump and Tom Carr were partners. Tom furnished the brains and Andy the cash. This was a 50-50 proposition in view of the fact that Andy put up $10,000. Now, even if Tom had taken and used all this money, he would not be guilty of larceny or embezzlement. Because one partner cannot steal or embezzle partnership funds. The other partner may demand an accounting and thus secure judgment against the defaulting partner, but he cannot prosecute him.

Of poor Tom Carr only knew this: Does he read 'The Wake'? Or won't you please visit him at his cell and show him my letter? Understand, I'm not soliciting employment, but sincerely feel something should be done before it is too late. Any reasonable fee will be satisfactory. C. D. J.

Swimming Meet
with Purple Team

The dual swimming meet between the C. A. A. and Northwestern, scheduled for tonight in the Cherry Circle pool, has been called off because members of the Purple teams competed in unannounced A. A. U. meets last summer. Coach Harry Tashelhurst of the C. A. A. has arranged a program among his own swimmers. According to Coach Tom Robinson of Northwestern four members of the team competed in A. A. U. meets last summer. This barred them from further competition as far as the A. A. U. is concerned. If Cherry Circle swimmers competed against the Purple tonight Coach Tashelhurst's team would automatically be disqualified from further competition.

In intercollegiate athletics an athlete is regarded as an amateur as long as any association, the A. A. U., A. A. F., or any other organization, issues his card. The A. A. U. however, has been fighting the A. A. F. for years.

Augie Kieckhefer held an eight point advantage over Johnny Layton, world's three cushion billiard champion, last night at the end of the second block of their 400 point match at Kieckhefer's billiard room. There is a side bet of $500 and the winner will take all the gate receipts. Layton displayed championship form when he won the opening block, 50 to 44 in 43 innings. Kieckhefer won the second block, 55 to 42 in 60 sessions.

Bruins Defeat
Brooklyn Pro
Quintet, 24-23

When Mike Wickhorst followed up his shot from three-quarters the length of the floor in the last ten seconds, scooped it up on the rebound, and scored from beneath the basket he brought Chicago's Bruins a 24 to 23 victory over the Brooklyn Visitation quintet. But, while Wickhorst's shot last night broke the string of defeats Chicago had amassed on their eastern road trip just ended, it also was the climax of the wildest pro basketball game Chicago has seen in some years.

Five seconds before Wickhorst's victory effort Red Conaty, diminutive Brooklyn forward, had stood in the center of the White City court and tossed a perfect basket, apparently winning the game for Visitation. His score had given Brooklyn the lead for the second time in the closing minutes.

On the following tip-off at center Tills Vos' batted the ball clear of the scramble. Wickhorst picked it and cut loose for the basket in a last desperate effort. The shot failed, but Mike followed his arch to the backboard and it meant the ball game.

Almost everything that could happen in a basketball game was compressed in the final seven minutes of last night's game. At that juncture Brooklyn took the lead, 29 to 25, on Willie Scullin's long distance basket. Just before this Gilt Ely of the Bruins and Red Conaty of Visitation had been sent from the basket with five personal fouls. And they were real fouls.

Ely's final effort was to pick up Fugh, the other Brooklyn red head, by the seat of his pants and bounce him down the side lines. Time was called while contestants were separated and Referee Chuck Saladore restored a semblance of order.

Fugh was still full of fight, and with three minutes to play crashed into Nat Hickey. Nat dropped in both free throws and the Bruins regained the lead, 21 to 20. Honey Russell, Bruins' captain, and Maffeo, substituting for Conaty, quit basketball to enter into a bit of slugging. Both were chased from the game. With no more substitutes on the bench, Conaty came back. This gave Brooklyn a technical foul and Kennedy made good.

Scullin's penalty toss on Skurnick's foul cut Chicago's advantage to a point. Then Conaty made his spectacular shot, only to be overshadowed by the great ending Wickhorst pinned on the contest.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(Special).—Jack Dempsey declared tonight he will fight again.

"Tex Rickard, my pal, signed me to fight for him again before he went west. I will go through with that contract just as though he were alive. He never went back on his word with me, and you can rest assured I won't go back on mine."

"Yes, fellows," he told an audience of newspaper men. "I will carry out Tex's plans to the dot. I do not want my master's job (meaning that of promoter of Madison Square Garden), but I will listen to my master's voice, and I know he would want me if I ever ran out on this last agreement. I made with the greatest, squarest shoeshin' guy that ever lived."

Dempsey will return to Miami Beach with Tex's widow to see the Sharkey-Rickard fight through on Feb. 25.

BY TOM PETTEY.

Chicago Tribune Press Service.
New York, Jan. 8.—(Special).—The body of George L. (Tex) Rickard lay in state in Madison Square Garden tonight while more than 10,000 friends and admirers filed by the rose-blancketed bier to pay tribute to a great sportsman. It was the most orderly crowd ever to gather in the great steel auditorium that is more accustomed to a roaring mob than it is to a funeral march.

In the exact center of the lofty arena, which was the creation of his genius and energy the body of the master boxing promoter lay in a heavy bronze coffin resting on a flower-decked catafalque. In the background was a bower of palm trees and on either side were heaped floral tributes.

Two unending lines beginning at 6 p. m. filed past the coffin and out into the biting cold night. Police and Tex Rickard's own Garden guards saw that no one tarried. Outside the throng continued to march silently in one door and out the other until the gates were closed promptly at 9 o'clock. As they swung shut the policemen and guards followed the last of the crowd out, leaving two unnumbered silent men to stand guard over the bier until the doors are opened again to the public at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Dream Castle Silent.
Madison Square Garden, the dream castle of the wiry, thin haired Tex Rickard, was strangely silent, and the ghost of the cheers that urged bruising prize fighters on, sent hockey teams flashing across the thin ice, and bicycle racers circling dimly around the master's track seemed to echo through the steel domed auditorium.

All evening long the vast crowd filed past the improvised bier of the creator of the "battle of the century," who landed his greatest fight down among the Florida palms when he faced a surgeon's knife eight years ago late.

Tex liked crowds, for it was the roaring of their throngs that made him a great man. He would have been happy, seated in some remote corner of the Garden, his fedora hat pulled low over his face and his cane tapping the concrete floor, to have watched this throng filing through his Garden.

"He Was a Great Guy."
The sun streamed through windows far above the platform on which Rickard's coffin rested as a tiny knot of mourners passed the afternoon beside their leader's body. Then, as it grew darker, floodlights were turned on the whispering group and a crape-decked auditorium sprang into view. It was a solemn, empty arena, its seats turned back, its floors scrubbed clean and its walls ringing eerily with every footfall.

Then the great doors were thrown open and a hushed crowd of thousands of friends and more curious filed past the police and garden guards in two unending rows.

"So Tex is dead! Well, he was a great guy. Been around that fellow, guess he'd lived his life."

"What do you mean lived his life? Tex was just getting started. He would have shown 'em some squares if a bum appendix hadn't got him."

"Well, anyhow, he was a square shooter."

"I'll say he was. Remember that time he put up the jack for old Griffin's funeral?"

McCULLOCH AND
LEHMANN HEAD
ARLINGTON PARKDirectors Vote $200,000 for New Clubhouse.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Charles A. McCulloch was named chairman of the board and Otto W. Lehmann was elected president of the Jockey club yesterday by the group of prominent Chicagoans who have taken over the Arlington Park race track at a cost of $2,400,000.

Most of those who a week ago underwrote the $2,000,000 fund to purchase the magnificent track on Chicago's north side and conduct it on a civic and non-profit basis were in attendance yesterday at the Blackstone when the officers were elected.

To Erect New Club House.
It also was voted to erect at a cost of approximately $200,000 a separate club house for the Turf and Field club members on the spacious Arlington Park property. It is planned to have the new club house complete by the time the summer meeting is held this year.

The complete list of officers of the new Jockey club follows:

Chairman of board, Charles A. McCulloch.
President, Otto W. Lehmann.
Vice presidents, Laurence Armour, Roy D. Keesh, Weymouth Kirkland, and John R. Thompson Jr.
Secretary and managing director, Roy Carruthers.
Treasurer, Leonard S. Florheim.
Executive committee (also voting trustees for common stock)—John D. Hertz, chairman; Leonard S. Florheim, Otto W. Lehmann, Charles A. McCulloch and John R. Thompson Jr.
Board of directors—Laurence Armour, Roy D. Keesh, Weymouth Kirkland, Roy D. Keesh, Otto W. Lehmann, Charles A. McCulloch, John S. Farver, Harold H. Reynolds, Lawrence F. Stern, Silas H. Strawn, John R. Thompson Jr., Thomas E. Wilson, Albert D. Laaker, and Warren Wright.
Three more directors to complete a full board of twenty-one will be elected at the next meeting, it was announced.

One of Finest in World.

There will be seven members of the committee which will pass upon applications for membership in the Turf and Field club to be conducted along the lines of the famous Turf and Field club at Belmont Park. Only 250 life members will be admitted into the club.

The addition of the new Turf and Field club will make the Arlington Park the most spacious turf plant one of the finest in the world. One of the best clubhouses to be found anywhere in the country was included in the original building plans and was completed for last year's meeting.

Benjamin H. Marshall has been invited to draw the plans for the new clubhouse.

WHEAT MARKET GROWS FIRMER; CORN IS STEADY

Oats and Rye Prices Turn Higher.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat showed a firm undertone throughout the day, prices advancing around 1/2 cent over the finish of Monday. At the top May was $1.17 1/2 @ 1.18, or 2 1/2 c over the low of last week. Selling against offers and by locals was a factor in checking the bulge, but the close was at $1.14 1/2 for March, or 1 1/2 c over the low of last week. Selling against offers and by locals was a factor in checking the bulge, but the close was at $1.14 1/2 for March, or 1 1/2 c over the low of last week. Selling against offers and by locals was a factor in checking the bulge, but the close was at $1.14 1/2 for March, or 1 1/2 c over the low of last week.

An improvement in the export demand for both domestic and foreign wheat has been witnessed during the past few days, and sales so far this week were finally placed at 2,500,000 bu by seaboard interests, largely Manitoba, said to have been disposed of on direct cables from Winnipeg. Figures as to the amount of hard winter and durum placed abroad were not given.

Winnipeg Wheat Higher. Winnipeg wheat was bought by shorts and closed 1/4 c higher, margin calls to the country overnight falling to bring in the selling orders expected by the trade there. Houses with eastern connections were on the buying side here, and helped along the advance. Liverpool closed 1/4 c higher and reported limited pressure of cash grain. There was buying of May and selling of July here by cash interests. Buenos Aires May closed 1/4 c higher at $1.14 1/2.

Reports of good rains in the provinces of Santa Fe and Cordoba, Argentina, which will be very beneficial for the new crop, led to some selling of futures here, but the minor breaks brought in commission house support and the market showed a firm undertone. In the face of the rain reports Buenos Aires May closed 1/4 c higher at $1.14 1/2, and Rosario was 1/4 c higher at $1.14 1/2, which attracted considerable attention.

Export Demand Improves. Messages from the seaboard for several days have indicated that foreign demand for cash corn was much better, but during that period there have been no sales reported, although the basis on cash corn at New York has advanced around 1/4 c. Local handlers sold 20,000 bu to exporters during the day. The country showed more disposition to offer grain to arrive and purchases of 75,000 bu were made to come here, although bids from outside markets were reported as 1/4 c higher than those from Chicago. Prospects are for unsettled weather over the belt, which may delay the movement to some extent.

There was a lack of interest in oats, and prices held within narrow limits. A sale of 100,000 bu made to go to stores. Commission houses were moderate buyers of rye, and prices advanced in sympathy with wheat.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Strength in wheat in Winnipeg, with its advance the last two days, is creating uneasiness among the shorts in wheat in Chicago and also bringing in a little buying among local traders for an upturn. One of the explanations of the strength in the Canadian market is that there is a better demand from China for shipment from the Pacific coast. It was suggested by a trader that it would be a good move for the United States to loan China $50,000,000 at the same time sell them 45,000,000 bushels of wheat, which would be a material help to market conditions.

Houses with Omaha connections were liberal sellers of corn on Monday around 9 1/2 c to 9 1/4 c and buyers yesterday at 9 1/2 c. There was a general feeling in favor of buying May corn around 90 1/2 c and selling at 91 1/2 c. This has been the feature for a week or more, the disposition being to take profits on every bulge.

A factor in the wheat and corn markets was the heavy closing of spreads, buying wheat and selling corn, by a number of the large local professionals who have been active in this way for a week or more.

In the report of the board of trade election yesterday the name of Edwin T. Maynard was omitted. He was elected by a vote of 590, the second highest on the list.

FIFTY YEARS of Progress

IN 1929 this bank completes fifty years of constructive service. Its record over this long period has been one of steady progress. Its growth has been attained because of sound management and the confidence and loyalty of its clientele.

With an augmented directorate and official staff, complete facilities and new quarters in the heart of Chicago's business district, it is prepared to offer depositors every modern banking service.

THE SEARCH for SAFETY

An issue of bonds is offered to the public. In the case of the larger houses, there is widespread newspaper advertising, directed to dealers and to the investor. To the interested investor especially, it is news.

How many months have preceded this public offering, occupied by study of the industry involved, by audits and by independent and disinterested appraisals of properties, plants and equipment, the investor rarely realizes. He does not know how many issues are rejected, after investigation has begun.

However, the preliminary work of the underwriter is the most important of the entire transaction—the public offering merely the culmination of the search for safety.

As investment bankers, originators of securities, we are jealous of our reputation for offering only sound securities. Only such securities as survive the most careful scrutiny are offered to our customers.

Your Investment Policy in 1929

What should it be?

Proper interpretation of ten important factors is necessary to the formation of a sound investment policy.

These are conditions that will make or break the market:

Unfavorable Factors

1. Low yield of common stocks in relation to bonds and commercial paper.
2. High level of interest rates, including call money.
3. Downward trend of bonds reflecting high money rates.
4. High level of loans against stocks and bonds.
5. Large volume of redemptions and greatly reduced gold reserve.

The GAS of the airways IS GREAT on the HIGHWAYS

USE SINCLAIR Aircraft GASOLINE IN YOUR CAR... *It starts cold engines fast.

Flying Fuel! Sinclair Aircraft Gasoline! Use it in your car this winter . . . and get the kind of smooth engine-performance you expect in June! Sinclair Aircraft is the Ace of high test gasolines . . . a marvelous gasoline that starts cold engines fast, tunes them up quickly and keeps them running smoothly, even when the wind is from the North and there's a zero nip in it!

You will be astonished at this remarkable gasoline. Not only does it start your engine fast and fill it with smooth power—but it gets out of your engine all the acceleration that is built into it. It greatly reduces the use of the choke, eliminates engine balk and eliminates gas locks, preventing jerky operation. It is guaranteed to meet Army, Navy, and Bureau of Mines Specifications for Aviation Gasoline; domestic grade. Sinclair Aircraft Gasoline helps your car make good, regardless of weather conditions.

SYNOPSIS. Hickory Hill has been the home of the Freers for generations. Cynthia Freer, named to it by family obligations and a promise to her mother never to leave her, strains at her bonds and tries to be free of the place and all its entail.

Dolly Freer, Cynthia's mother, meets the new assistant rector of St. Timothy's church and invites him to Hickory Hill to meet her family. Aunt Lizette Freer, Dolly's mother-in-law, has been an invalid for twenty-five years, but she runs the family and its finances from her bed.

Claire Freer, daughter of Uncle Julius Freer, arrives at Hickory Hill with her twin sister, after separating from her husband, Dr. Peter Kelsey, in Paris.

INSTALLMENT IX. THE FAMILY COUNCIL.

Cynthia was interested in what Claire told her of her husband. "I suppose Peter was terribly clever, all the doctors said so. But he wasn't clever enough to get me out to that terrible place. I stayed in Paris, and he came in for the week-ends."

"What happened after the babies came?" asked Cynthia.

"Then he developed a new mania. He nearly wore my soul out about taking them to the country. He wanted me to leave Paris in the height of the season, and devote every second of my waking hours to them!"

"Poor little tots," said Cynthia, "they do look terribly frail."

"They are just tired from the long journey. I'm the one that deserves your sympathy. I feel as if I should scream if I didn't do something besides play nurse. By the way, what does one do out here?"

"You might try a rest cure!" suggested Cynthia.

"No, I've had rest enough. Isn't there any bridge or dancing?"

"Barney and Ethel's kid friends keep things lively, but that's about all."

"Aren't there any men in the neighborhood?" asked Claire, appalled.

"Yes, one. Mr. Curtis Benson, the prospective rector of St. Timothy's. He is boarding over at Fulton. You might seek the church as a last refuge."

"That doesn't excite me, either," said Claire, laughing. "Haven't you any men friends, Cynthia? What on earth do you do with yourself?"

"I make daisy chains," said Cynthia, who had spent the early part of the morning helping the French maid unpack Claire's trunks.

"You always were wasted on this family," said Claire. "I never saw anything to equal the way they all batten on you. They seem to forget you are young and pretty and that you ought to be given your chance."

"Not so young, and far from pretty," said Cynthia, with a hint of bitterness.

"Not pretty, but worse," as the French say," said Claire, appraisingly. "If I had your figure and your carriage, wouldn't I sling style on!"

Cynthia laughed. "Well, you had better sling on something else now. Every one is here, but Uncle Julius."

"What are you going to ride?" asked Cynthia in amusement.

"Poor papa. I had forgotten what a gay old sport he is! Is he ever really sober?"

"Not so you would notice it!" said Cynthia, with a twinge of conscience for referring to the matter thus openly.

Claire put a small white foot out of the bed, and reached around almost on the floor for a pink satin mule.

"If Peter Kelsey had ever known my dad," she said, plaintively, "he might have made more allowances for me."

It was the first touch of seriousness she had shown since her arrival, and Cynthia's sympathies were instantly aroused. She remembered the little motherless girl who grew up in hotels and on trains and steamers under the precarious care of a dissipated father. She remembered her unexpected arrival at the farm, in lace-trimmed petticoats and buttonless shoes, with flags on her fingers, and dirt under her fingernails. But before Cynthia's sympathy had a chance to express itself, Claire took a new tack.

"Who is downstairs, anyhow? I can't remember who those people all are."

"Well, of course you know Uncle Herbert and Aunt Dora?"

"Yes. Do you remember how you used to call them S. B. and T. C.—'Sounding Brass' and 'Thinking Cymbal'?"

"Yes. I ought to have been spanked for it. I am awfully fond of them both."

"Of course you are. But that never did keep you from laughing at people. Go on, who else?"

"Well, there's Aunt Maria and Mr. Lewis. You remember, he's the dyspeptic one with the receding nose. Everything disagrees with him, and he disagrees with everything. But Aunt Maria is an angel. It's the only thing I've got against her. People have no business being as good as she is until they get to heaven."

"And what about Uncle Charlie? Didn't papa write me that he had made a misalliance?"

"He married his trained nurse. I think he did awfully well for himself. Poor Uncle Charlie! He was first honor man at college and could have been a professor of either Greek or Latin, and here he has had to spend his life working with screws and bolts and nails, and has failed in every department they've put him in."

"All I can remember about him," said Claire, "is that he was rather ladylike, and was always correcting me for something. But you don't mean to say that all these people are coming here this morning?"

"All except Mr. Lewis and Sarah, that's Uncle Charlie's wife. Aunt Dora is the only in-law that is let in on these occasions."

"I'm simply petrified," said Claire. "I wish I'd stayed in Paris."

"So do I," agreed Cynthia. "But now you are here, we've got to get through with it. What on earth are you putting on those legs for?"

Claire was getting into white flannel riding breeches and a smart jacket, and had already pulled a pair of high boots from her shoe box.

"I am going to ride," she announced. "That's the only inducement papa is coming out here."

"What are you going to ride?" asked Cynthia in amusement.

"Haven't you any horses?"

"Only old Rolly, and he is like the horse in the poem; 'His head bulged out, but a darn good horse for the fix he's in.'"

Claire seized her hand. "I like you Cynthia! You haven't changed a bit. Look at me! Am I all right for the torture chamber?"

Cynthia chuckled. Anything further removed from Miss Lizette's cherished vision of an ill-used young wife could scarcely be imagined.

When they presented themselves at the invalid's door, the reason was evidently in full swing. Uncle Herbert, as befitted the head of the family, sat in the most imposing chair, flanked on either side by Uncle Julius and Aunt Maria. Opposite them sat Aunt Dora, plump and complacent, and Uncle Charlie, austere and prim. In their midst was a canopied bed upon which, like Buddha on his lotus leaf, sat Aunt Lizette, fortified for the ordeal by aromatic spirits of ammonia and the 91st Psalm.

As Claire entered there was an ominous pause, charged with surprised disapprobation. There was a lazy insolence in her very walk that would have been disturbing even had her costume been above criticism. Instead of being properly crushed and apologetic, she was bold and almost scolding, smiling outside the sacred protection of the family circle.

But Aunt Lizette was equal to the occasion. It was she who after one flash of astonishment first recovered herself.

"My poor child!" she cried holding out both arms to Claire. "Are you still at all rested?"

"Restored," said Claire, suffering the embrace coldly, "never felt sicker in my life. Good morning, papa, Uncle Herbert, Aunt Dora."

"And this is Uncle Charlie and your Aunt Maria," prompted Aunt Lizette. No matter what happens you've always got us to stand by you. Get her a chair, Cynthia, right here by my bed. And now, dear, you must feel perfectly free to tell us all about it."

"About what?" asked Claire, opening her eyes wide.

"Your trouble, dear. We are all with you, remember that. We have no blame for your whatsoever. All we ask is that you tell us everything so we will know how to proceed."

Claire gave a swift glance at the door as if contemplating flight, then she looked appealingly at Cynthia, who had taken her seat by the window and was demurely hemming a napkin.

"There isn't anything to tell," she said, impatiently. "Besides what is the use of going over it all?"

"The matter should be thoroughly investigated in order to be intelligently dealt with," announced Uncle Herbert in his most official tone. "There are alternatives—a reconciliation, a legal separation, and a divorce. First we will discuss the possibility of a reconciliation."

"There isn't any," said Claire, flatly.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning, this is a burlesque comedy that is a fitting dish to a burlesque program, and will please devotees of burlesque.

Despite the presence of clever people in its cast the film is mediocre because of uninteresting direction. Even in a farce there should be some idea of fitness. Back alley manners and vandalism should be wished on supposedly well bred people. In "A Single Man" this has been done.

The tale is about a bachelor author absorbed in his health and his work and efficiently assisted in the latter by an efficient Miss Hazelton (Allen Prince), who's mighty pretty when she takes off her glasses.

Life moves along smoothly till the girl next door comes home from school. Maggie's gay and mercenary mamma thinks wouldn't it be nice to have the writer man—the millionaire! Maggie sort of thinks so, too. The train staff team-work and—Robbie falls for Maggie's wiles.

The girl and her gang make a mummy of the literary gentleman, who—in the nick of time—sees himself—well, Miss Hazelton sees him! And so forth and so on.

"A Single Man" is full of action that's blowsy and overdone. It is well acted, smoothly set, and satisfactorily photographed.

See you soon.

Needs List of 3,000 to Assure Cheaper Care in Hospitals

Unless a sufficient number of members can be assured at one time to guarantee the first year's operating expenses, the projected Civic Hospital association's plan for providing hospital care for persons in moderate means will not become a reality, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Ethel Kincaid Greenbaum, president.

Mrs. Greenbaum presided at the first meeting of the hospital board, held at the Palmer house.

It is essential to the plan to supply free hospital care for the membership in return for $18 yearly in dues, Mrs. Greenbaum explained, that a large enough membership be enrolled to insure expenses for twelve months. She placed the number required at 3,000. For the dues paid, $1.50 each month, the member would receive a maximum of fourteen days hospital care free each year, including a private room, board, floor nurse, ordinary medicines, use of operating or delivery room, and routine laboratory examination.

The Inquiring Reporter Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune, For today's question, Ruth Sower, 2621 Harrison street, Evanston, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.
Which do you consider the preferable house pet, a bird, a cat, or a dog?

The Answers.
A. H. Weiss, 1518 South Lawndale avenue, Evanston, Ill., says: "I don't think there is any doubt that a dog is just about the best all-around pet to be had. They are friendly, they obey, and they keep quiet most of the time. A dog is a real friend of the entire family. Cats are a little like women at times—they purr, and insist on doing things they please. A bird does credit to its size."

Miss Tessie Blewies, 2437 Walton street, Evanston, Ill., says: "I don't think there is any doubt that a dog is just about the best all-around pet to be had. They are friendly, they obey, and they keep quiet most of the time. A dog is a real friend of the entire family. Cats are a little like women at times—they purr, and insist on doing things they please. A bird does credit to its size."

John P. Allen, 8154 South Paulina street, real estate—My choice is a dog. Dogs have saved many lives in cases of fires; they have proved themselves to be a pal in times of danger, and they are useful as well as ornamental in a home. We have a dog who looks after our 3-year-old son as he crawls around the house.

Mrs. Elizabeth Robbins, 1540 East 56th street, designer—A dog is to be preferred over a bird and a bird is to be preferred over a cat. A dog is more knowing than almost any other animal, and no other animal is comparable to it as a friend of unswerving faithfulness. Cats are treacherous. Birds are cheerful, comforting little fellows.

Louis Hull, 416 South Dearborn street, public accountant—A dog. They are real companions and protectors. I haven't a place for a dog now, but I had one some years ago and I missed him after he was gone. A bird is all right as an ornament, and as something of a singer, but that's about all.

Mrs. G. L. Caldwell, 1540 East 56th street, designer—A dog is to be preferred over a bird and a bird is to be preferred over a cat. A dog is more knowing than almost any other animal, and no other animal is comparable to it as a friend of unswerving faithfulness. Cats are treacherous. Birds are cheerful, comforting little fellows.

BY ARTHUR SE...

Washington, D. C. (Chicago Tribune)—President Hoover is not expected to come until the eve of his inauguration, which was learned tonight the third day of his public men. Mr. Hoover plans to leave early next week there will be comparison probably will return by Feb. 15 for a reference on his cabinet that it will be necessary to consult a considerable number of his advisers before he fills the positions and he disposes each of them the money to Florida and India there will be for Florida. In addition wants to get a glimpse of the protectorate in Haiti at close range the of overpopulated Port wants to put the first his good will tour of by a visit to Mexico.

Vastly Interested Latin America, apparently to loom large in the Hoover administration. Effect is desirable of real solidarity of the new world. He seems abilities in trade between countries and the one of his aims will be commercial intercourse. Only those who know views on the future republics fully appreciate of his decision to countries before entering presidency. So considering southward the case no surprise if for secretary of state Dwight W. Morrow, himself by effecting between the United States and for secretary of state Klein, a Hoover appoint the bureau of foreign commerce, who has been the recent expansion trade with Latin America. Fletcher, ambassador to the Latin who piloted Mr. Hoover will tour, is also glad to see under the new administration.

Schafer Boost A new candidate for president was brought to Mr. Hoover today. Representative elect from the Republican gain south, urged the President appoint Bacon from the interior. This was in the lute of Mrs. Kentucky, who wants a cabinet portfolio and have the solid backing of the Republicans. He again urged upon Mr. representative Maurice (Rep., Ky.) and Kentucky. Mr. Hoover called White House in the afternoon with President half an hour. The conference was not reported.

Kellogg Is Lunch Secretary of State Kellogg was the luncheon guest of President Hoover, but the point no significance to the cause of their conviction. Kellogg will not resign. Secretary of State Davis had a brief of own solicitation. He be in the Hoover very rich, he might Senator Smith W. (La.) told Mr. Hoover don't want the McMillan and would rather at an extra session say whether he had selections, though on visit was to warn confirmation of Anderson and William J. Doan bitterly contested by the senate. The Pennsylvania congress urged Mr. Hoover extra session of the revision of the well as for farm relief.
